INTRODUCTION.

The present volume—third of the series of this calendar of the American MSS. in the Royal Institution—covers a period of nine months, namely, from July, 1782, to March, 1783, leaving material sufficient for one more volume to complete the whole of these manuscripts, which extend to the close of the year 1783.

Sir Henry Clinton having returned to England, was succeeded in New York, as shown towards the end of Volume II., by Sir Guy Carleton, afterwards Lord Dorchester, who had previously served as governor and commander-in-chief in Canada from 1768 to 1778. Like his predecessor, Sir Guy held, together with his powers as commander-in-chief, the authority to act with Admiral Digby as Commissioner for restoring Peace. Before leaving England he was acquainted with the negotiations for peace opened by Lord Shelburne upon his appointment as Secretary of State, and though on the first of the month of which this volume opens, the death of the Marquis of Rockingham had closed that short administration, yet, Lord Shelburne being placed at the head of affairs, the negotiations proceeded with but little interruption. The military events belonging to these dates are therefore few, but the details of this concluding period of the British occupation of their late colonies are not without interest.

One of the first papers is a state of the army under Sir Guy Carleton, giving the total of the effectives as 34,529. An attack by a party of Americans on Lunenberg, Nova Scotia, in the month of July, is entered on page 305, and, on page 157, is described the attack by Indians on General Wayne's camp on the outskirts of Savannah, though that event actually took place in June. The skirmish in South Carolina in which the American Colonel Laurens was fatally wounded is also mentioned, (p. 110). The arrival of the French fleet at Boston and the movements of the armies of Washington and Rochambeau, though not specifically stated, are probably the foundation of the opinion given at New York by General Lossberg in October as to the danger of attack (p. 162), and later of the dispositions and minute regulations given by General Robertson for the troops in case of such an event (p. 260).

The evacuation of Savannah took place in July, under a parting protest from Governor Sir James Wright (p. 11). That of Charlestown was next proceeded with and took much longer to accomplish, the correspondence with General Leslie, who was in command there, continuing to the month of December. The artillery and ordnance stores were sent to Halifax, while most of the troops were distributed in the West Indies, East Florida, Halifax or New York. The decision to retain East Florida an asylum for the loyalists induced a great number of these with their slaves to remove thither, see the correspondence with Lt. Col. McArthur and Governor Tonyn at St. Augustine. Many other loyal inhabitants went to Jamaica and a few hundreds to Nova Scotia.

On the 20th December Carleton writes :—The evacuation of this place (New York) is to commence as soon as possible.

It was decided that Halifax should be put in the best state of defence and in his letter of the 9th September to Major Gen. Paterson (p. 110), the commander-in-chief intimates that the whole reinforcement of the year was to remain in Nova Scotia. To that province came the civil governor—John Parr—in October, and the correspondence and arrangements as to providing lands, shelter, and provisions for the loyalists, disbanded troops, and others arriving there, continue to the end of these papers. The "troublesome post" of Penobscot, as Washington calls it, was also retained for the time being.

The payment of the various provincial regiments by warrants issued every two months to their own paymasters is explained by Mr. Morgann, secretary to Carleton, as a method introduced by Sir Guy on his arrival (p. 158). Three of these American regiments were placed on the British establishment from December, 1782, viz., the Queen's Rangers under Lt. Col. John Graves Simcoe, the King's American Regiment under Col. Edmund Fanning, and the cavalry of the British Legion commanded by Lt. Col. Tarleton.

Delays and difficulties thrown in the way of exchange of prisoners are remarked on in another letter from Mr. Morgann to Commissioner Elliot (p. 129). The prisoners which remained of the Troops of the Convention of Saratoga had actually been in captivity since the year 1777. Papers in the months of December, 1782, and January, February, and March, 1783, describe the sending out from Headquarters of supplies of clothing, money, and other necessaries, conveyed under passport by Captain Armstrong and Major Gordon to the various prisoners—British, German, and Provincial—in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, and the seizure and detention of some of these supplies en route. The action of the Spaniards towards the prisoners taken in the capture of Pensacola and West Florida calls forth a very angry letter from Major Campbell, see page 22. Depositions of Germans show the efforts made to induce them to become American settlers (pp. 314, 407). A letter from Lord Cornwallis regarding his personal exchange may be noted, as well as some papers relating to the release of Capt. Asgill.

Of the unscrupulousness of army contractors a giimpse is given on page 43, in the destruction of certain barrels of flour which consisted of "sweepings of storehouses and bakehouses, rags, paper and old hats."

Some private bills of the commander-in-chief for groceries, haberdashery, etc., show incidentally the prices of such articles at the time in New York.

The situation in the West Indies seems an anxious one for the various commanders, naval and military, in view of the movements of the combined French and Spanish forces at Hispaniola, and of the known fact that while the negotiations for peace with both countries were being conducted in Paris, an expedition was in preparation at Cadiz of which the French Admiral—Comte D'Estaing—was to take command. On the 24th March, however, the French minister at Philadelphia communicates to Sir Guy Carleton his official news of the signing of the preliminaries on the 20th January and consequent cessation of hostilities (p. 414).

A few papers at the end of the book may be pointed out as showing the exertions of Lt. Col. Thompson, better known as Count Rumford. In August, 1782, he had been publicly thanked in General Orders for completing the King's American Dragoons (p. 97). At the end of March the papers referred to include a scheme to attach four companies of light infantry to that regiment, as well as plans for the raising of a corps of volunteers from the disbanding Provincial forces to serve in the West Indies.

This volume, like the preceding ones, has been seen through the press by Mr. Henry J. Brown.

Enclosing Brig. Gen. Campbell to Maj. Gen. Leslie 27 June.

MAJ. GEN. EDWARD MATHEW to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 2. Antigua.—Acknowledges letter by Maj. Nesbitt. The corps under Gen. O'Hara, consisting of the 19th and 30th Regiments, arrived on 24 June last, on its way to Jamaica. The season being so far advanced and Jamaica appearing from the successful action of 12 April to be in perfect security and the troops most exceedingly wanted here, took upon himself to detain them, and has added them, for the present, to the garrison of St. Lucia; they have sailed to-day for that place. Gives extract from Shelburne's letter to him, authorising him in case of the arrival of any troops from N. America to detain them, also that he (Sir Guy) had orders to assist with reinforcements from his army. The French since 12 April have sent back some of their troops to their former stations to windward and have strengthened Brimstone Hill, and as the re-possession of St. Christopher appears to be a principal object with the administration, encloses extract of his last letter to Shelburne stating his reasons for not attempting it. Submits for consideration the sending what troops can be spared to put him in a state to act offensively and that they could proceed from New York to arrive in November at St. Lucia; would also be glad to have more ordnance if possible. Has adopted his Excellency's plan, and appointed a commissary, Henry White, of New York, to transact all business that may occur in North America relative to the army under his command. Captain Bibby will deliver this. Sends a cypher.

Three signed letters. Vol. 12, Nos. 145, 175, 149. 4 pages each.

Enclosure :—

MAJ. GEN. EDWARD MATHEW to EARL OF SHELBURNE.

Extract. After obtaining all the artillery and artificers that St. Lucia could furnish and arranging to consult with Prescott as to the possibility of retaking St. Christopher, found that a scarcity of field ordnance and stores prevented that action being taken for the present.

Extracts. Vol. 12, Nos. 145, 176 and 148. 1 page each.

MAJ. GEN. EDWARD MATHEW to HENRY WHITE.

1782, July 2. Antigua.—Appointment as Resident Commissary in New York to provide for the troops in the West Indies. To receive a compensation of 5*l.* per cent. on all monies expended.
Triplicate signed letter. Vol. 12, No. 199. 2 pages.

1782, July 2. Antigua.—Instructions to the same to provide lumber for a barrack for 500 men, plank to construct two guard houses each for 50 men, vessel to convey horses and serviceable horses as many as it will carry, also fifty sets of light dragoon appointments. What is particularly required is negroes and if any are to be procured at New York (without purchase) to enter into H.M. service at 6d. a day and rations, they are to be sent. He is authorised to grant John Cruden of Charlestown power to send 200 from there.
Triplicate signed letter. Vol. 12, No. 198. 3 pages.

GEN. H. ST. JOHN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 2. Park Lane.—Recommending the bearer Mr. Yeoman, who having spent his fortune is gone to America to enlist in some regiment in the hope that his future conduct may entitle him to promotion.
Autograph signed letter. Vol. 30, No. 67. 3 pages.

ROBERT BAYARD to MAURICE MORGAN[N].

1782, July 3. New York.—According to Gen. Carleton's desire, has ordered diligent search to be made concerning the sloop "William and John" and now sends the marshal's report together with the letter and documents.
Autograph signed letter. Vol. 15, No. 64. 1 page.

SIR GUY CARLETON to DON JUAN MANUEL DE CAGIGAL, Gov. of the Havannah.

1782, July 3. New York.—"Your letter of the 18th April . . . addressed to Genl. Campbell, has been placed in my hands. Since which, I have also received two letters of your Excellency's . . . .

Your Excellency will observe by the inclosed receipts, some slight difference between the number of prisoners intended to be sent, and those actually received, which your Commissary of Exchange will doubtless set right.

Upon the subject of exchanges, and of the detention of Major Campbell and Captn. Deans of the Navy, as Hostages, I had received in May last a letter from His Excellency Genl. Galvez, dated 30th December 1781. In his opinions upon these subjects I cou'd not concur, but I referred the whole to that generosity by which your national character has been always marked, assuring him, as I now assure your Excellency, of every attention on my part towards the subjects of Spain, and so far as it depends upon me, I shall preserve that intercourse of good will and regard between the subjects of two nations, which no course of open war has hitherto been able to destroy. With this disposition of mind, I shall represent with frankness, that it has been inconvenient to the officers, whose regiments are in Jamaica, to be sent here, and as their transmission to this or that place, seems to be of no public moment, I therefore hope, Sir, that in future exchanges those private considerations may be mutually attended to.

I am further to acquaint your Excellency, that those officers, whose corps were in Jamaica, have frequently applied to be conveyed thither in Flags which were often passing, and that two officers whose men have been brought here in the Flags have themselves been sent to Bermudas, circumstances with which it is probable your Excellency has not been made acquainted.''

Draft. Vol. 43, No. 17. 3 pages.

FRANCES DONGAN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 3. New York.—Memorial. Is widow of the Commandant of the 3rd Battalion of New Jersey Volunteers. Requests to receive fuel and rations as heretofore. With order of allowance by Thomas Murray a.d.c. 19 July, for 80*l.* per annum.

Original. Vol. 25, No. 135. 2 pages.

LIEUT. GEN. JAMES ROBERTSON to [SIR GUY CARLETON].

1782, July 3. Beckmans Farm.—Confusion and apologies over the loss of papers put into his hands for perusal. Has obtained copies from the Judge Advocate. Is exceedingly unhappy least (sic) the roll may have dropped on the road and fallen into improper hands. Will offer a reward. Is ashamed to see him and sends Wemys with this.

Signed letter. Vol. 30, No. 111. 2 pages.

EARL OF SHELBURNE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 3. Whitehall.—Desiring exchange of three engineers.

1782, July 4.—Is directed by the Commander-in-Chief to acknowledge receipt of letter of 12th June. Will contribute everything in his power to encourage so laudable a spirit in the inhabitants. Enclosed report will explain the reasons which have prevented his sending by the present opportunity the articles requested.

Enclosure :—

1782, July 4.—Report addressed to Gen. Sir Guy Carleton. That he had applied to the officers commanding the Royal Artillery to know what had become of the ordnance mentioned in the list enclosed in Governor Browne's letter. Had received answer [see note of Lt. Col. Martin 29 June] that the ship's cannon and stores were delivered to the Royal Artillery at Boston in 1775, and were said to be sent from Bermuda to prevent their falling into the hands of the rebels then expected to seize the island. The whole on examination were found unserviceable and left behind on the evacuation of Boston. Mr. Van Dam says it is impossible to send any arms by this opportunity as the ship is too full.

ESTHER TROUP to GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON.

Received 1782, July 4.—Memorial. Is widow of Lieutenant John Troup, mortally mounded at Eutaws, South Carolina, 8 September last. Begs quarters, fuel and rations for herself and family, also the royal bounty to officers' widows. Has a son about six years old who she wished might be provided for in one of the Jersey battalions. Accompanied by certificates from Brigadier Generals Alexander Stewart and Cortland Skinner, a memorandum by Oliver Delancey that there must be a separate application for the bounty, and that the son's age is an obstacle to his being made an officer, and by order of allowance for 40*l.* per annum.

ISAAC VANDER POEL to LT. GEN. JAMES ROBERTSON.

1782, July 4. New York.—Memorial. Refers to previous petition delivered last February. The smallness of the allowance of half a dollar a day was partly compensated for by the prospect of the Refugees being allowed to cut wood, but as that appearance of maintaining himself seems at an end and he is in the deepest distress, begs to be put on such a footing as may keep him from ruin. With copies of two certificates and with order for allowance of 80*l.* per annum.

JOSEPH CHEW, Secretary for Indian Affairs, to MAURICE MORGAN[N].

1782, July 6. New York.—Sir. I have had sundry conferences with the Indian sent to me in consequence of your note to the Adjutant General, too long to repeat here. He wrote several things he was desirous of saying to His Excellcy the Commander in Chief; from them I formed a memorial he has put into the Adjt. Generals' hands to deliver.

He says much about peace, religious & Christian dutys having been educated and ordained a minister at Dartmouth College in New England, a place famous for the true spirit of canting and zeal in the cause of rebellion; he has been preaching to the Stockbridge and other Indians more immediately under the care of Mr. Kirkland who was educated under the same pious masters, and who by his unwearied endeavours got the Oneida Indians, to join the rebels, neither of these people being able to come at the salary allowed by the Society in Great Britain to Indian Missionarys Mr. Simons's principal business here is to find means of getting that or some other reward for what he cals his Christian labours, and having heard of the money given by the people of England to Whitaker Wheelock and the mohigan Indian preacher Ocum, under the pretence of their sole motive being the civilisation of the savages—he proposed to ask a passage to England there to solicit and get his salary fixed, also to endeavour to obtain other donations. I have put him of this at present being well assured it would occasion much trouble and no one good can arise from it,—

He says he hears the Oneida Indians have retired from amongst the inhabitants and gone back to their former settlement, that the Indians of Stockbridge and the New England tribes who were with the Rebels have quitted the service and are now at home and he thinks if the Commander in Chief sends a favourable message to them forgiving their former behaviour, they will remain at home, attend to their own affairs, and have nothing more to do with the Rebels notwithstanding Mr. Kirkland's endeavours to keep them in their service, who with many others have made them believe it was the Kings Troops from Detroit who murdered the moravian Indians on the Ohio.—I know several instances of kindness shewn by the Connecticut Indians, particularly the Nahautick Tribe, to His Majesty's persecuted subjects and believe any favourable report this man may make will have a good effect and I think the sooner he is dismissed the better. I will do myself the honor of calling upon you and if theres any other circumstance concerning him you wish to know will give the best information in my power, and am with great respect, &c.

THOMAS KNOX to [GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON].

Saturday [probably 6 July 1782].—Since the dragoon was mounted John Hutchins brings information that the sloop called the "Dove" answers to the description given of the "William and John"; she lies now at the wharf and was sold for auction; the men have escaped. It is thought that those who seized her, took her to Egg harbour, and she was brought into this port under name of "Dove," having the Admiral's permission to enter with lumber. Desires to know whether the Marshall (sic.) of the Court is to detain this vessel until further enquiries have been made.

GOV. SIR JAMES WRIGHT to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 6. Tybee in Georgia.—Received his of 24 May, notifying his appointment. Had previously received Leslie's orders, and necessity obliges him to comply with them. "I am afraid Sir, the situation of affairs here was not properly & sufficiently known to your Excellency or I trust such steps would not have been taken; the distress and misery brought on His Majesty's Loyal Subjects here, you cannot conceive, and the very great property given up, besides one of the most valuable provinces on the continent of America, I apprehend your Excellency has no idea of. And this when a reinforcem^t of 4 or 500 Men woud have effectually held the country, and when the last letters I recd. from His Majestys Secretary of State authorized me to declare to the people that His Majestys Loyal and Faithful Subjects in Georgia might rely on His Majestys protection & support. I have the honor to be with perfect esteem, &c.

BROOK WATSON to MAURICE MORGANN.

1782, July 13. Saturday, 2 o'clock.—By letter received this morning, he is convinced Mr. Morgann believes him mistaken respecting the intended post for embarking part of the people bound to South Carolina; had the clerks sent copies of the returns as they really are he would have been more satisfied. Is still of opinion that part of the families are to be taken on board at Edenton. With this protest he returns the intended pass and waits to receive the three in any form he pleases.

COMMISSIONERS CARLETON and DIGBY to LT. GEN. JAMES ROBERTSON.

1782, July 14. New York.—(Really to the Board of which he was President.) The sentence of the Court Martial held on Captain Lippencot, together with minutes of their proceedings, are now laid before them. They are desired to give their opinion what further step should be taken to prevent like murders in future and satisfy justice in the present case.

GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON to LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE.

1782, July 15. New York.—No. 4. Approves of his delaying the evacuation of St. Augustine; would agree to the change made in the garrison if he did not fear it would hinder the evacuation of Savannah and Charlestown. Would have been much censured had he given the permission to go to Europe desired at such a time. All other operations are suspended till these evacuations have taken place. The evacuation is not a matter of choice but of deplorable necessity in consequence of an unsuccessful war. Therefore again requests that the troops from Savannah be sent as soon as possible to New York, those from Charlestown to follow. Is not unmindful of distresses of Loyalists, but considers the safety of the province of first importanee, and that being accomplished the prospects of Loyalists will be more favourable. Has applied to the Admiral for a convoy to Jamaica and he thinks he can supply one. Has not received the papers respecting the rents of houses. Major Wemyss, who takes this letter, will give information on the several matters mentioned in Leslie's letters.

DR. HUGH ALEX. KENNEDY to [SIR GUY CARLETON].

1782, July 16. General Hospital at Three Rivers.—Congratulates him on his safe arrival at New York. After five years of oppressive servitude, in which time he has experienced every species of asperity and unprovoked neglect, flatters himself his release cannot be far distant. Is assured of His Excellency's ability to restore the colonies and bring about peace. Begs to be removed nearer his person. Recites as proof of Haldimand's aversion that his two sons, 13 and 11, had been proposed as volunteers by Major General Clark in October 1781, but Haldimand immediately erased their names and gave the commissions to two younger boys and a volunteership to one of the same age.

LT. GEN. JOHN CAMPBELL to DON BERNARDO DE GALVEZ.

1782, July 17. New York.—A very angry letter caused by the communication of his (Galvez's) letter to Sir Henry Clinton dated 30 December last, and the language he has therein "indecently presumed to express." Conscious of rectitude he presents his conduct to the rigid test of a public investigation. "I have transmitted the correspondence in question with you Sir, to the Minister of my Sovereign. Have you done the same? If so, why disturb the Commander in Chief of these armys, or attempt to divert his attention from more important objects, by the intrusion of a subject, which was already left to the mutual and ultimate decision of the Courts of London and Madrid." Were the epoch of the assault on Pensacola to revolve he would repeat his conduct, and glories in recollecting that "the handfull of gallant and intrepid officers and men I had the happiness to command, resisted a multitude of foes (in the combined forces of France and Spain) in a manner that I leave to the chaste pen of a candid historian to relate. . .

I think it beneath me here to comment on the use you have made of that power [gained by the capitulation]. Let events, and the too often mentioned correspondence speak for themselves. I am above, & feel my conduct superior to expostulations. And I here declare, that with respect to personal considerations, I consider myself & my reputation, so far above, & so much out of the reach of your ungenerous, & unbecoming reflections, that as a private gentleman, I would have treated your last letter with a disregardfull & contemptuous silence. But when I view myself as an officer holding a respectable rank in the service of my most gracious sovereign, and beloved country, I obey the impulse of a just resentment, at your unavailing effort, & impotent attempt to tarnish the lustre of the arms of Britain, & gloss the inconsistency of your own conduct in doing which you have stained your paper with language, I would blush at the thoughts of imitating, in retorting with similar illiberality on you.

It is with unexpressible satisfaction Sir, I now announce to you, that I am now no longer in your power, nor subject to the haughty & wanton caprices of your temper. By recent letters from Havannah & Jamaica, I have with real joy received authentick, & unequivocal intelligence, that comformable to the laws of nations, & of war, as well as to the first article of the capitulation, signed & ratified with you (on the surrender of the garrison of Pensacola) on the 10th May 1781, the officers & soldiers, together with myself, the publick & staff officers composing that garrison, have been fairly & actually exchanged, by an equivalent of officers & men in the service of Spain (that had been captured and detained as prisoners of war to the British arms) being sent by the Governor & Commander in Chief of the Island of Jamaica, to the Havannah, & there received for the purpose of said exchange, by the Governor & Captain General &c of the Island of Cuba, and that transaction stamped with every necessary & conclusive sanction, agreeable to the honourable and liberal cartel settled & interchanged between their Excellencies the Governors of said Islands on the 18th November 1781. . . . . .

I would wish . . to avoid making any further mention to you of Major Campbell . . . . I shudder at the accounts of cruelty being added to injustice in his confinement at Mobile, which as being one of the most unhealthy situations on earth, offers a probability he may there perish (and with him the power of that pen you seem so much to dread), and of representing the accumulated injuries that have been vindictively & illiberally heaped on him. Should he survive his maltreatment, his liberty & redress of his sufferings will be sought & expected from other powers than those you possess. . . . .

As it is utterly impossible that any thing you can ever say or do, will amount to an attonement for your conduct & behaviour towards me; and as from education and disposition, I am unaccustomed to a harshness of expression reluctantly forced from me by you, I hope our correspondence will here for ever finish, and as my service is now again called for, & devoted to my King & country, I never wish to meet you but in arms. I cannot however lay down my pen, without observing to you, that should the chance of war, in your turn ever place you a prisoner to the arms of Britain, & in my power (an event by no means unusual even in that career of conquest, & unequal advantages that seems to have intoxicated your imagination) you may rest assured that a liberal treatment, contrasted to that I have experienced from you, would in my humble opinion, be the deepest reproach, & the severest censure you could possibly meet with.''

Closes with sincere testimony to the uncommon politeness and liberal treatment received from Don Manuel de Cagigal Governor of Cuba.

LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 17. Charlestown.—No. 3. Sir,—Five Spanish Officers and about seventy men, having been captured by one of our privateers, and brought into this port, in the month of March, I was induced from motives of various consideration to adopt the measure of sending them immediately to the Havana; in the number of which the expectation of being able to obtain some consequential intelligence of the strength and situation of the enemy's force at that place had much weight with me, which the then critical state of our affairs in that part of the world, and the invasion which threatened Jamaica had rendered an object of considerable importance.

In this view I made choice of Mr. Robert Ross, who embarked in the Flag of Truce which conveyed the Spaniards, with the temporary appointment of a Commissary of Prisoners for the purpose of adjusting the exchange. This Gentleman readily engaged in a design which from his connections with the Spaniards during his former residence on the Mississippi he was well qualified to execute. The uncommon ability with which this service has been performed, will in the perusal of the extensive and correct information which I have the honor herewith to enclose be manifest to Your Excellency, and render my praise superfluous—I embraced the opportunity of the Zebra sloop of war sailing from this port to the West Indies to transmit a copy of it to Sir George Rodney.

The relation which I also enclose of the situation of Captain James Campbell, I thought it my duty to procure, and to lay before Your Excellency; I have every confidence that a proceeding of so extraordinary a nature, thus coming Sir to your knowledge will not remain unredressed, and the pain with which I represent the unmerited sufferings of a British Officer is alleviated when I reflect that I address myself to Your Excellency. I have the honor to be, &c.''

LT. GEN. ALEXR. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 17. Charlestown. Sir,—Since the departure of Captain Ashe, I have been severely attacked with an inflamation in my eyes, which has confin'd me to a dark room, and from my being subject to this complaint for these some years past, I have every reason to suppose that my confinement will continue near a month longer; my constitution from the nature of the climate has been very much reduced, but as I have your Excellency's orders to remain here, nothing but the immediate apprehension of my health being in danger, can induce me to remove myself to New York, although my physicians have pressed me to it.—I have therefore resolved to try the remainder of the summer; but I think it proper to apprize your Excellency, that should it become necessary for my healths sake, that I should be obliged to leave Charles Town, that Genl. De Bose, who will have the command in my absence, has, from his good sense and prudence, ever left the business department of the command, to the senior British officer.—Major Genl. Gould whose health was declining very fast, sailed in the Grenville Packet for England the 13th inst by the positive advice of his physician.

LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 18.—Sir,—Notwithstanding the arrangement that I proposed to your Excellency by Captain Ashe, in removing part of the 60th Regiment to this place ; I have since judg'd it of more essential service, to order the Florida Rangers, who were raised for the service of Carolina & Georgia, to disembark at Charles Town ; where I propose keeping them, till such time as your Excellency may think proper to remove them to New York, or St. Augustine.—Should the latter place be determined to be kept, I think it necessary to acquaint your Excellency, that Lieut. Col. McArthur, from the knowledge I have of him, will be, if it can be contrived, the properest person to leave the command of that fort to.—From the late changes in the publick departments, I have reason to think, that application will be made to your Excellency, by Major General Dalrymple, for Capt. McKinnon, Deputy Quar. Masr. General, for leave to go to New York, in order to settle his accounts ; I need not I hope Sir, point out to you, the great occasion there will be, for the service of a Quarter Master General here, should this place be evacuated, and I am to hope that leave will not be granted for him.—I beg leave to put your Excellency in mind of the very great want of rum here, which I have reported in every letter, that I have written to New York for these three months past. Although I have made every saving in my power, by confining the issuing of that article to the soldiers alone, yet I am sorry to acquaint your Excellency that I have not at present in this garrison, more than one week's rum ; and I am sorry also to add, that not long since, three ships from Jamaica, have been taken off our bar, and carried into George Town.—I must therefore request that a quantity of rum may be ordered here as soon as possible, and if there was sent at the same time a proportion of port wine for the use of the sick it would be of the greatest service.

LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 19. Charles Town.—No. 4. Will send this by the fleet from Savannah, which may be hourly expected. Refers him to Brig. Gen. Clarke for an account of the evacuation of Savannah. Has been induced in answer to the request of Sir James Wright and the inhabitants, to desire Capt. Swiney to supply shipping to transport about 2,000 of their negroes to Jamaica; has written to Campbell and commanding officer of the navy at that island, concerning this, and to desire the immediate return of the vessels. Is not yet informed if Capt. Swiney could comply with this, but desires his instructions, as it is probable a similar requisition will be made by the inhabitants of this place when evacuated. Scarcity of provisions in Florida. Has ordered the Florida Rangers to disembark at this place not thinking it advisable from the conditional circumstances under which they were raised to send them to the Northward. The sickness which rages among the troops at Charlestown has compelled him to contract the works at the Quarter house and to reduce the command at that post which now consists of about 700 men. General Greene has moved his army opposite Ashley Ferry near Mathew's plantation. Thinks the amount of shipping required for evacuation of Charlestown cannot be estimated at less than 15 to 20,000 tons, and doubts if the total embarkation can be completed in less than four or five weeks. Has given leave to Lieutenant Colonels Balfour and Cruger and Captain Barry to proceed to New York to request Carleton's permission to return to Europe. Has appointed Lieutenant Colonel Allen of the New Jersey Volunteers to succeed Balfour as Commandant of Charlestown. P.S. Has learned that Greene has been joined by 300 new men under General Pickins; a number of boats have been collected on the Ashley, and the militia ordered to assemble. As it will not be possible to keep any number of them together at this season of the year he has probably some immediate attempt in meditation to which every possible attention will be given.

JOHN GRAHAME to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 20. Tyby in Georgia.—His Majesty having been graciously pleased to appoint me Superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Western Division of the Southern District in the room of Mr. Cameron deceased—I presume to adress myself to your Excellency, and to request that I may be honored with your instructions as to the line of conduct which your Excellency may wish me to pursue, in respect to the different Nations of Indians within my district.

Above two hundred of the Chactaw Nation arrived in this Province in January last and have remained with the Garrison of Savannah ever since—they have upon every occasion shown themselves ready and willing to go upon service—and in every instance where they have been actually employed have behaved not only with spirit but with a degree of good order and regularity, not very common amongst savages, they are now embarked for East Florida, and having been absent from their Nation near twelve months—I shall send them home how soon they arrive.

I beg leave to observe to your Excellency that from the contiguity of the Chickesaw and Chactaw countrys to West Florida and the Mississipi, the Indians of those Nations have it at all times very much in their power to harrass the Spanish Settlements in that quarter, and indeed not only to break up the more remote ones altogether—but likewise to possess themselves of several of their outposts,—and I humbly apprehend a diversion of consequences may be made by them, should your Excellency think proper to give me orders to that purpose.

St. Augustine being now the only British post to the Southward from whence any communication can be kept up with the Indian Nations in our interest—I shall there wait your Excellency's orders—I have carried with me the few presents which remain undistributed—of which a fresh supply is very much wanted—letters from Lord Geo. Germain of the 7th Decembr mention that two different cargoes of such goods had been shipt for Pensacola for the use of my Department, but on the surrender of that garrison were stopt at Jamaica, and had been since ordered to New York—where if they should be arrived—I hope your Excellency will be pleased to give orders that they may be sent to me at Augustine.

If the Commanding Officer of his Majesty's Troops in East Florida should require of me—as necessary and essential to the King's service & the security of that Province; that I should order down a considerable body of Indians—I conceive it will be my duty so to do—but in obedience to late instructions signified by the Right Hble. Welbore Ellis Esqr. I shall persevere in restraining them from committing any acts of violence or from acting at all offensively, unless they should be ordered on detachment with the King's Troops."

Lord Adam Gordon to Gen. Sir Guy Carleton.

1782, July 22. Newcastle on Tyne.—"A cloathing for the 26th Regiment of foot, (then under my command, as Colonel,) was sent out to them, in the year 1779, and has ever since been lying in a store at New York. Although I wrote several times, to Sir H. Clinton to beg, he would let it go, as clothing, to Provincials and give me either credit for the amount—or cloathing at home, in lieu of mine;—I never could be favoured with any answer." Has directed his agent to write to Major Murray respecting it, and will be obliged if he, (Carleton), would give such directions as he thinks best in view of the loss of a whole clothing. Recommends to his notice his nephew Francis Skelly eldest captain in the 71st.

LT. COL. WILLIAM MARTIN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 26. New York.—Description of Delaware River, Head of Chesapeak Bay, Hudson's River and Gardner's Bay. Situation of the "rich populous trading town" of Philadelphia. "The command of the navigation of the River Delaware is of the utmost importance to the British Nation, both in peace and war, and the taking possession of it would be one great and decisive step towards terminating the American Rebellion. To do this effectually and permanently, it would be necessary to establish a respectable post between Philadelphia and the sea, on the banks of the River, whose guns could command the ship channel." Two points are proposed —one at the mouth of Christian Creek, the other at Reedy Island. Advantages of both these. The post of Reedy Island "would bring over to the British interest, a most valuable, extensive, and fertile tract of country, commonly called in Virginia and Maryland the Eastern Shore. . . . . This country is well peopled, and besides tobacco produces abundance of wheat, Indian corn, oats, rye, with plenty of pasture and hay. So that were the British established either at Reedy Island or Christeen Creek in the Delaware, they could draw from it the same resources, as they do now from Long Island by possessing the lower parts of Hudson's River, the East River & Connecticut Sound, but much more abundantly, as Long Island is by no means so rich or fertile as the country above described whose inhabitants have already made many advances to come under the protection of the British Government, and have long wished for the execution of the plan now suggested. And were they to prove upon trial insincere in their professions, a few frigates and armed vessels would soon reduce them to submission, as they could not long subsist with any comfort without free egress to the ocean thro' the Cheaseapeak and Delaware Bays. Their example would very soon be followed by the inhabitants of Virginia and Maryland, on the opposite shore of the great Bay of Cheaseapeak. In short the Delaware and Cheaseapeak are so connected, that whoever is master of the first, will very soon be so of the last, with the help of such a sea force as may be reasonably expected, where almost every thing depends on the command of the water, and the proper distribution of cruizers and armed vessels. . . . . The town of New York tho' well situated for trade, is one of the worst situations in the world for a military post. It commands no extent of country or important pass, either by land or water, but is itself commanded by Brooklyne and Powles Hook; both its land and water lines are so extensive, that it requires an army to defend it, and has accordingly had one for that purpose these six years past. It is a spot of no intrinsic or natural value to Great Britain, and has a very bad harbour for ships of war, tho' its temporary importance is at present very great, by its immense quantity of moveable property belonging both to the King and to the British merchants that is at this time within it.'' Brooklyne on Long Island is infinitely preferable to the city or island of New York. The post called the Flag Staff Hill on Staten Island may be rendered very respectable. But Sandy Hook is thought by good judges to be the most important spot to Great Britain of any spot connected with this communication. Description of Gardner's Bay called by Admiral Arbuthnot the Spithead of America. ''Rhode Island and Boston Harbours having already been mentioned in the Remarks dated July 1780, it is only further to be observed, that whoever commands the navigation of Boston and Rhode Island Harbours, Hudson and Delaware Rivers, will finally bridle the whole Rebel Country, and reduce those infatuated people to the necessity of suing for peace on any terms. It may be objected to this plan that the securing of a few harbours or rivers included altogether in the short distance of four hundred and fifty miles, can never command the rebel coast which is upwards of fifteen hundred miles in extent, with many harbours, rivers, and bays both to the Southward of Delaware and to the Northward of Boston, besides several small harbours between them—To this it is answered that the countries depending on the Delaware and Hudson Rivers, Rhode Island and Boston Harbours for exports and imports, contain upwards of three fourths of all the whites in the thirteen revolted colonies, and produce the sinews of war in the same proportion, therefore whoever permanently possesses that coast will have the whole.'' The great Bay of Cheasapeak with the Carolinas requires a decided superiority at sea to engross it. If Great Britain cannot keep on the American Coast this decided superiority all other plans for permanently holding N. America will prove abortive. Besides the Royal fleet armed vessels must be at each post. ''It is notorious that the present American Rebellion was raised by the smugglers of New England, New York and Pennsylvania, residing in the sea port towns, particularly the large cities. The Bostonians gave the first being to the thought, their example was soon followed by the rest, and finally adopted by the thirteen provinces now in Rebellion. These are the greatest enemies to America as well as Britain, to the latter they will never be reconciled but by compulsion, and when the rebellion is over, they will begin their smuggling again, unless they are curbed by Britain's effectually commanding the navigation of the four principal posts, above mentioned, when that is done all the rest will be easily bridled by cruizers.'' The choice of a military emporium will fall either on Rhode Island or Gardner's Bay as the fittest situation.

Stores.

1782, July 30. New York.—Report signed George Turnbull, Lieutenant Colonel New York Volunteers, James Duncan, navy, and William Armstrong, Captain 64th, of a survey taken by warrant of Sir Guy Carleton on damaged provisions exhibited to them by Peter Paumier, Deputy Commissary, as unfit for use. At the Victualling Stores at New York they found 75½ barrels of pork, and 11 of beef which being totally unfit for men to eat were taken below Governor's Island and the barrels staved and emptied into the river. Barrels of butter, oatmeal and rice were also found unfit to eat and were thrown into the river. Pease and bread being mouldy and unfit to issue were sold for the good of government. Seventy-two barrels of flour they saw thrown into the river after staving the barrels at the wharf. Six of these barrels consisted of "sweepings of stores and bake houses, rags, paper and old hats." At Jamaica Long Island twenty barrels of flour were examined, four only appeared to be damaged flour, the other 16 were of a composition much the same as that mentioned above. Barrels of pork and butter being unfit to issue were sold for the benefit of government. A barrel of oatmeal appeared to them a composition of flour, meal, pease and dirt. Two casks of vinegar were also ordered to be destroyed.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM BOULOGNE.

1782, July 31.—"The probable cessation of arms in "America, and the promised acknowledgement of Indepen- "dence will render it necessary to make some permanent "arrangements for our family, and either to collect the "disunited branches or make further divission. in either "case it will be my greatest pleasure to contribute as far as "I am able to it's harmony and felicity.

"I say the promised acknowledgement of Independence, "because the only difference between the Rockingham and "Shelbourne parties is, that the former wanted an imme- "diate and unconditional acknowledgement, and that Lord "Shelburne (who is likely to continue in office) has declared "in the House, his intention of not suffering it to remain "an obstacle in the way of Peace—but the flattering "prospect begins to decay, the English are accused by the "French of being too much elevated by their successes in "the West Indies, and of proposing unreasonable terms. "Their agents however still continue at Versailles, and it "is possible their negotiations may only be protracted on "account of the length of time necessary to receive dis- "patches from Madrid and the Hague. I mentioned before "that the Dutch had constantly declined the proposition "of a separate Peace, and as my countrymen have some- "what uncivilly done the same, a general pacification or "redoubled war are all that remain."

GEORGIA REFUGEES to GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 31. St. Augustine.—Memorial. Protesting against the inaccuracy and harshness of a written engagement drawn up by Capt. Swiney which they were obliged to sign, to the effect that having had the option of proceeding to New York or St. Augustine they have accepted the latter, and that if it be considered by the Commander-in-Chief a deviation from his order to Capt. Swiney to land them at St. Augustine instead of New York, they will then claim no accommodation to remove from there, if it should be quitted, unless more craft than sufficient to remove the garrison should arrive. Represent that they had no choice left but to sign, and trust that should this province be evacuated they would meet with his countenance and protection in spite of it. At least 4000 persons whites and blacks have removed from Georgia into this province. Jamaica or some other of the West India Islands is the only place where they can employ their slaves to any advantage.

MAJ. GEN. EDWARD MATHEW to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 31. Head Quarters, Antigua.—The transports bringing the 19th and 30th regiments with other transports which were ordered to proceed to North America, have been unavoidably detained but will sail in a few days. Has detained Captain Wynyard of the 74th regiment and directed the Deputy Adjutant General, Quarter Master General and remainder of staff to return, as they were not required here; has kept also the medicine. The loss of the packet prevents his knowing the intentions of the administration but should His Excellency be able to spare any troops, requests them to bring as much lumber with them as possible.

GOV. PATRICK TONYN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, July 31. St. Augustine.—Has received his of the 24th of May and congratulates him upon his appointment. Transmits triplicates of his dispatches sent by Moore, on the alarming occasion of the intended evacuation of this province, with an address to the king, Moore having informed him that the originals were thrown overboard. Has received, through General Leslie, his commands for the troops to remain in East Florida; expresses his own and the inhabitants' thanks for this measure, as it has saved them from destruction. They expected no mercy from the rebels. Trusts this last order will anticipate the royal clemency. Flatter themselves the attention due to subjects so distinguished for their loyalty and the commodious asylum the province will prove, will induce His Majesty to continue it under his royal protection and time will evince the wisdom of such measures and the importance of the Colony to the trade and commerce of Great Britain.

HUGH KELLY and JAMES FLEMING.

N.D. [qy. 1782, July.]—Case. That in the year 1775 when the rebels were associating the people to carry on rebellion Kelly commenced counter-associations—that Fleming being appointed associating officer for the rebels he joined Kelly under that colour and together in Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania they associated upwards of 1900 men. "That in the year 1779, a report prevailed in Maryland, and Virginia, that part of the British Troops, was preparing, to penetrate from Fort Detroit, to Pittsburgh, on which Kelly immediately went to Red Stone Settlement, near Pittsburgh (where he had large connexions) above two hundred miles, from his residence in Maryland, and there associated one hundred and seventy five men to join the Kings Troops at their coming to Pittsburgh, and that at the same time, Fleming went to the Kittawnings, in the upper part of Pennsylvania, and associated seventy five men to join the King's Troops at the same time and place. . . . That previous to June 1781, near thirteen hundred fighting men, had taken the annexed oaths, No. 3 and 4, under the name or appellation of the Maryland Royal Retaliators, and near five hundred the affirmation No. 1 and oath No. 2.'' That Kelly with officers and privates was apprehended, Fleming escaped to Lord Cornwallis in North Carolina; Kelly, condemned to be hanged, was saved by a dispute between the civil and military authorities. Later, 170 officers and privates were apprehended and some sentenced to death—but in spite of dangers Kelly and Fleming continued to prepare the Loyalists for the coming of Lord Cornwallis, but hearing, with a number of other loyalists, of his Lordship's then situation in York Town, and a reward of 500*l.* and 350*l.* respectively being offered for them dead or alive, their property in the hands of the rebels, they resolved on separating and getting to New York. On his way to that city Kelly was apprehended and kept in gaol twenty two days. On his arrival at New York he met General Hamilton who gave him the annexed certificate. His case was laid before General Clinton who promised to provide for him, but other than a dollar and a ration per day and fuel for one room he has received no consideration or gratuity, though he has lost property, been at much expense, and been thirteen times tried by the rebels. Both he and Fleming now expect their families in New York and have no means of providing for them.

SIR GUY CARLETON to COMTE DE ROCHAMBEAU.

1782, August 1. New York.—Received his of 29th May, 29th June and 17th July with the paroles enclosed. Has attended heedfully to what was said as to the difference of the tariff agreed on by their respective Courts and if the one hitherto adopted between the Americans and English can be altered for the better he will readily concur. Consents to his proposal to make up the balance of 44 in the exchange of Col. De Laumoy for Majors Greene and Timpany out of the remaining convalescent prisoners sent from Gloucester to New York in February last. Transmits a list of the 44 men thus credited, 12 being still left to be accounted for as Rochambeau wishes. "I have the pleasure to acquaint Yr. Exy. that I learn by the last pacquet from England that conferences are opened at Paris for a general pacification, an event which instead of these cold intercourses may give me the happiness & honour of embracing your Exy. in peace." LT. GEN. ALEXANDER LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 2. Charles Town.—No. 5. Has received his of 15th by Major Wemyss. It will be a satisfaction to have an officer so well instructed in His Excellency's sentiments with regard to future operations. Will give particular attention to the disposal of everything for the speedy evacuation of this place on the return of the fleet from New York. Will give orders meantime for articles of heaviest encumbrance to be embarked on vessels now here; expects some ships will soon return from St. Augustine and Jamaica. Fears they will not have sufficient shipping to transport all the loyal inhabitants of Charlestown. Sickness still prevails among the troops and to such an extent that the reinforcements from Georgia are barely sufficient to relieve the posts.

REAR ADMIRAL ROBERT DIGBY to [SIR GUY CARLETON].

1782, August 3. New York.—I have been talking with Mr. Taylor who appear'd to me a good deal disappointed at the news, but willing to go out & will write; & wd return I believe if required.

He wishes much to have something to produce to the people from authority. If your Excellency therefore will have something drawn out for him to carry out I sd think it wd. be of service, or give him a copy of our letter to Genl. Washington, which indeed I think cant be publish'd too soon, & if you will be pleased to order me a copy & dont disaprove, I will give one to Mr. Taylor & others—But at all events I think it sd. be printed immediately. I have the honor &c. I this moment hear that the news which has got abroad from Genl. Conway's motion has made the Refugees violent to a degree & I am afraid will occasion more disorder in the town.

EARL CORNWALLIS to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 4. Calford.—Dear Sir, Lady Asgill, whose situation has been most distressing, is very anxious to have the inclosed letter transmitted to Genl. Washington. I think I convinced her that it was impossible that the letter could arrive in America time enough to be of any use, but yet she was unwilling to give up sending it, I have therefore taken the liberty of inclosing it to Your Excellency, that you may determine whether it ought to be sent to Genl. Washington, if, contrary to all probability, you should receive it before that unfortunate transaction is finally settled.

I mentioned in a former letter how my exchange was circumstanced; but lest that packet should have miscarried I will again trouble you with a repetition of it. Mr. Laurens on obtaining his liberty engaged to procure me a release from my parole; and as Dr. Franklyn had been empowered by Congress to offer Lt. Genl. Burgoine in exchange for him, & as that General had already been exchanged in America, he requested the Dr. to give me an immediate release, that I might not be under the necessity of waiting for an answer from America. The Dr. said that he had no authority from Congress to propose any person in exchange for Mr. Laurens but Genl. Burgoine, but that, as he was of opinion that in justice & equity I ought to be released, & that it was for the honour of his country that it should be so, he would take it upon himself to do it, but he still seemed to entertain some doubts whether the Congress would confirm it. He likewise concurred with the Marquis de Lafayette in giving their activity to my aides de camp Ld. Chewton, Majr. Ross and Lieut. Haldane, (who are still however to be exchanged whenever a cartel shall take place), as a civility of nearly a similar nature was done to Genl. Lincoln.

I shall take it as the greatest favour if you will give every assistance in your power for the final settlement of this business. I most heartily beg pardon for giving you so much trouble about my affairs, and can only assure you that if it ever should be in my power to obey any commands of yours, it will give me the greatest satisfaction to do it. I have the honour to be with great esteem & regard &c.

ANTHONY STEWART to MAURICE MORGANN.

1782, August 4. New York.—Transmits a paper containing some remarks on the evidence produced in the defence of Lippincot on his trial for the murder of Joshua Huddy. Is aware that many things brought forward will condemn the members of the Board of Directors, but he will not now attempt to justify himself in case such an action would weaken the testimony by which Lippincot hopes to save his life. This paper he desires to be laid before Carleton and returned shortly to him, as it is to form a part of the general remarks on Lippincot's trial.

SIR GUY CARLETON to BRIG. GEN. JOHN CAMPBELL.

1782, August 5.—Received his of 24th and 26th June; thanks for the description of Nova Scotia enclosed and for that of the post of Penobscot. If he should continue to think it absolutely necessary to construct an outwork for the defence of Penobscot to give order to engineer accordingly. "As you mention that the Howe armed brig will be useful in keeping up a communication with Penobscot, I approve of your continuing her in the service, and leave it entirely to your discretion to keep or discharge the armed schooner." If the party sent to Spanish River remains longer than the usual season for encamping, to give directions respecting their hutting. With regard to examination of public accounts refers him to general orders on that subject; accounts to be sent first to the deputy commissary and thence to commissary of accounts. Morden's—the barrack master's—letter having induced delay in fulfilling the orders given to commissary general by the King's commission, those orders to be complied with immediately. To issue bat and forage money to all officers in his district holding themselves in readiness for action. Refers to him a request from the Governor of Nova Scotia, for military assistance. P.S. Has thought of lodging an additional number of troops at Halifax and given directions to the commissary general to make preparations for that purpose.

ELIZABETH DE LANCEY to MAJ. GEN. JAMES ROBERTSON.

1782, August 5. Flushing.—Desiring continuance of emolument enjoyed since last November—fuel for three fires and forage for two horses. It is the first compensation or favour she has ever received from Government. Early in the war her house at West Chester was taken possession of by the Continentals and converted into a hospital; when they were routed General Heister's Quarters were fixed there; her property in forage, grain and cattle was taken for use of the army, and though an account was sent in, and payment promised, it has never been received. She and her children lost 14 houses at the fire in New York in 1776. Returning to her house at West Chester they were too much exposed to alarms from the open and spirited part her son James has taken. He advised them to come to Long Island and the fuel and forage was a most seasonable relief.

REAR ADMIRAL ROBERT DIGBY to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 8. New York.—"As I understand the Refugees on Loyd's Neck are exceedingly alarmed at the withdrawing part of the force from the Sound, I should therefore be glad to know from Your Excellency whether you intend they should keep that post as it will be necessary in that case to send something there immediately, there is a galley ready but she has so few men that without 20 soldiers she is not fit to go, and if you think it right they should remain there I will order a frigate though she is wanted here."

Signed letter. Vol. 20, No. 119. 2 pages.

[SIR] G[UY] C[ARLETON] to REAR ADMIRAL ROBERT DIGBY.

1782, August 8. New York, Head Quarters.—In answer to his letter of this date, it is his wish to keep the post at Lloyd's Neck as long as it is in his power; but at any rate it would be proper to have some frigates in the Sound.

Autograph signed letter. French. Vol. 51, No. 125. 2 pages.

RAWLINS LOWNDES to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 8. Charlestown, S. Carolina.—Apologizes for the liberty taken in writing. Is an inhabitant of the province; known in many public characters in which he formerly served his Majesty. After the conquest of Charles Town was included in the benefits of the capitulation and expected to be protected in person and property. Has since remained within the British lines unimpeached of violating his engagements—Thinks the continual deprivation of his property is not warranted by any principle of war or policy.

What he particularly alludes to is the prevalent practice of carrying off negroes from this province, scarcely a vessel sails but some of the inhabitants lose this kind of property; many of his own are now at New York and other places. Captain Durnford of the Engineers has lately carried with him a valuable house servant woman, wife to a man in Captain Durnford's employ. They have both been in Georgia in his employ. Hearing that Georgia was to be evacuated, waited on Colonel Moncrieff to request his interposition for the recovery of the negro woman, but Captain Durnford did not permit her to come on shore and after lying a day or two off the bar the vessel proceeded to New York. Desires interposition of his authority and the restoration of the woman, to whom his family are much attached, who raised his children and had the care of their infancy.

GOV. WILLIAM FRANKLIN to LIEUT. GEN. JAMES ROBERTSON.

1782, August 9. New York.—Requesting His Excellency to have the rent of the house in which he resides settled as soon as may be. When he took the house 50*l.* was asked for the first six months and if he remained in it longer the rent was submitted entirely to himself. Is of opinion 150*l.* per annum will be sufficient, and he believes, satisfactory to Messrs. Yates and Stephens who represent the persons to whom the house belongs. As he has taken his passage to England at the request of a number of Loyalists and with the approbation of the Commander-in-Chief would wish his consent to pay the rent for the remainder of the quarter ending the last day of October. The reason for asking this favour is that he is obliged to leave his furniture and effects undisposed of as it will be some weeks before they can be sold with such loss as he can ill sustain. Followed by a statement from Adjutant General Delancey that having represented that Sir Henry Clinton had told Governor Franklin his house rent should be paid, the Commander-in-Chief was pleased to order the following letter to be written to Lieutenant General Robertson.

1782, July 12. Head Quarters.

"Sir, It having been decided that the House in which Governor Franklin now resides, is the property of some children under the care of Mr. Stephens of the Ordnance, and that they ought to be paid rent, the Commander in Chief has directed that what is now due shall be paid by Government, for which purpose I take the liberty to request your Excellency will be good enough to determine what sum should be paid for each year that it has been in the Governor's possession."

LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 10. Charlestown.—No. 6. Sends a duplicate of his letter acknowledging despatch by Major Wemyss. Fears he will require much more shipping than at first stated. Has given permission to British merchants at Charlestown to send a deputation to learn what terms will be granted them from the enemy; whatever Greene's answer may be, it is probable many will desire to remove their property with the troops. Will appoint officers to superintend the transport of the negroes &c. to Florida, Jamaica and elsewhere; proposes a corps of pioneers; has not sufficient provisions, so will apply to General Greene, who he hopes will see it is to his interest to supply him on reasonable terms. Some civil officers and others desire to go to England if a proper convoy can be granted.

Signed letter. Vol. 23, No. 217. Duplicate. No. 218. 4 pp. and 3 pp.

LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 10. Charlestown.—The Loyalists whose property has been confiscated by Acts of the Rebel Assembly seem to expect some compensation for their losses from the sequestration fund. Mr. Cruden, the commissioner appointed to manage the sequestered estates, has a balance due to him of 10,000*l.*, and he requests this may be paid from a proportional sale of negroes. Desires orders respecting this claim and the expectation of the Loyalists, in case an offer should be received from the Rebel Assembly which by some is thought to be concerting measures on this subject. Is again in a dark room and very weak. Proposes sending the Florida Rangers with the refugees to St. Augustine unless contrary orders arrive before the evacuation. Has now part of the artillery embarked.

Signed letter. Vol. 23, No. 220; also duplicate, Vol. 23, No. 219. 2 pages each.

LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 10. Charlestown.—No. 8. Proposes sending the North and South Carolina regiments and Col. Brown's corps to East Florida, also the withdrawing thence of the 4th battalion 60th regiment under Lieutenant Colonel Glazier; this change would place the command on Lieutenant Colonel McArthur who is well fitted for it. Many of the South Carolina regiment have gone off to the enemy. Proposes to reduce the regiment to infantry instead of dragoons. The returns, which are sent, show the weakness of these three corps; will await orders before making the change and in the meantime proceed with preparations for the evacuation which will probably be completed about three weeks after the arrival of the transports. N.B. The two deputies gone from here to his Excellency is a measure he has not encouraged.

[SIR] G[UY] C[ARLETON] to LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE.

1782, August 15. Head Quarters, New York.—No. 5. "I am to acknowledge the receipt of your letters by the fleet from Charlestown, which arrived safe in this port on the 10th instant.

Major Wemyss who sailed from hence the 17th July in the "Duc de Chartres," will repeat to you my determination respecting the evacuation of Charlestown, and my impatience until it is carried into execution.

You may expect some shipping from Europe or the West Indies to assist in this business.

Tho' my letter of the 23rd of May last, was so full, respecting the conduct to be observed in the evacuation of Savannah, and was equally intended for that of Charlestown, yet, having received information from home, that Government disapprove very much of the officers of the police at Charlestown having extended their jurisdiction beyond its proper limits, that they have given in to a very dangerous policy of interfering with the property of Rebels, lying within the British lines, and have taken cognizance of debts prior to the capitulation, all which is considered as unwise, and unauthorized, I think it right to communicate the same; tho' what has been said in my letter above mentioned, I thought sufficiently strong to prevent plundering of any sort, or carrying away any property which may belong to Rebels. I recommend, not only the leaving the property of such persons uninjured, but to treat those in your power with lenity and generosity.

Such prisoners of war as remain in your possession you will try to get exchanged as soon as possible.

A supply of rum was sent under convoy of the "Duc de Chartres," and I have directed such medicines as are most wanted to be sent by this opportunity.

P.S. I am informed the French Fleet were seen off Cape Ann on the 7th instant."

BRIG. GEN. JOHN CAMPBELL to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, August 17. Halifax.—Received letter of 5th inst.; the contents shall be punctually complied with. Colonel Hatzfild with a body of German recruits arrived on the 14th inst., by whom he received a letter from Shelburne. Encloses a copy, together with a letter from his lordship to Carleton. The recruits were ready to sail for New York, but on information that a French fleet was actually on the coast, of their taking the "Allegiance" sloop of war from Penobscot, and chasing the "Chatham," he detained these recruits on account of the risk of their being taken. Is glad an outwork is to be constructed at Penobscot; intends sending the Brunswick recruits thither, as he is afraid the place may be attacked. Provision ships for this garrison have not yet arrived, and there are only 10 days' allowance of bread and flour in the King's stores here. Has given Mr. Crawford permission to purchase 400 barrels of flour as there is only a month's provisions at Penobscot. Hopes to send two months' provisions to latter place as some flour has been sent in the "Diligence." An enclosed return shews the weak and sickly condition of the garrison.

WILLIAM WANTON to MAJ. GEORGE BECKWITH.

1782, August 21. 47 Smith Street.—"Upon application to Mr. Chaloner respecting the Rhode Island records, I have this information, that he took them into possession by order of Genl. Piggot, and that the Town Major Barry, the day before leaving Newport, gave him an order to send them to his house. That he did so, and that they came to this place in the ship with Genl. Presscot's baggage, and were lodged with Mr. Thurston, who was a writer in the Adjt. General's Office, where he lately died. That the chest contained only records of wills &c. nothing relative to the doings of the Government. As yet cannot find where the said Mr. Thurston left them, perhaps at a Mr. Rapaljee, Newton, where he did for some time reside.—

I have in my possession the Laws of the Colony with their Acts driving the Governor from his governmt, if of any use you will command them, and my services."

[Sir Guy Carleton] to Capt. Sir Andrew Snape Hammond (sic).

1782, August 25. New York.—Sends copy of a letter written by Digby and himself as Commissioners for Peace to General Washington, to which they have as yet had no other answer than an acknowledgment that it had been received and should be transmitted to Congress. It is difficult to foresee what precise events may follow the proposition made at Paris, but it seems certain that many refugees will need and have a just claim to establishments out of the 13 provinces; it will be therefore an act of necessary caution to reserve as much land as possible in his province to answer demands which are likely to press on the generosity and good faith of the public. Is informed of the near approach of the English fleet under Admiral Pigot. Recommends the bearer Major General Paterson to mutual regards.

Autograph signed letter. Vol. 25, No. 228. 1 page.

EARL CORNWALLIS.

1782, August 26.—Paper headed "A copy of a Meml. from Lord Cornwallis &c.," accompanying the warrant to Robert Hoaksley 27th August. That Lord Cornwallis had issued an order that the inhabitants of York, Elizabeth City and Warwick County should on delivering up their arms and giving parole be protected and paid for whatever property, corn, and cattle should be wanted for use of the troops. That large supplies were so received and receipts and certificates granted, but that the military chest at York being very low they could not be paid in money and it was notified to the merchants that they could take these receipts in payment for goods and depend on being paid such as were regularly endorsed when money arrived. Lord Cornwallis some time ago ordered that all those receipts or certificates that might be presented at Charlestown should be paid, but many being now in New York he requests that the Commander-in-Chief might give order that any presented at the Commissary General's Office here should be paid.

LIEUT. GOV. ARCH. CAMPBELL to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, September 1. Jamaica.—Sends a duplicate of his despatch of 13 July last. By intelligence from Cape François is informed that Don Galvez and the combined army are still in cantonments at Hispaniola. After deducting about 2000 French embarked for the Windward Islands, the troops who have gone on board the fleet as Marines, and others died of sickness, the forces are supposed to amount to 15000 men. Two of Gen. O'Hara's transports on their way to St. Lucia from Antigua with troops on board have been compelled by currents and scarcity of provisions to come to Jamaica; owing to the difficulty of forwarding them at this time of the year, he has ordered them to land and join the troops here, until orders are sent for their removal. Has heard that part of the 79th Regiment and the Loyal American Rangers with some provincial troops of this island have been sent to New York and Bermudas; will be glad of orders given to them to return to their respective corps in Jamaica.

GEORGE ROSE to GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, September 7. Treasury Chambers Whitehall.—Sends a copy of the last report of the commissioners for the public accounts relating to extraordinaries of the army. "The constant & assiduous attention your Excellency paid to that service while in this country, from which the public are likely to derive such considerable benefit, and the steps taken, almost instantly, on your arrival at New York, for constituting a Board there to examine the Accounts of the Army, will not permit a doubt to be entertained of your Excellency's disposition to use every possible means to lessen the expenditure, at a time when it is so highly important that every exertion should be strenuously used for that purpose. The accounts for the money advanced by way of imprest to the several officers for various services in America, cannot be finally made up and settled here till a late period, and the auditors who are ultimately to examine them cannot possibly judge so well of the charges as persons on the spot, who are conversant with the services for which they were incurred; every immediate control of the expenditure therefore by such persons must be of the utmost consequence." The Treasury intend considering this report; will communicate their directions or observations.

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to MAJ. GEN. JAMES PATTERSON.

1782, September 9. New York.—No. 1. "Having determined not to withdraw any part of the Troops actually in Nova Scotia, but that the reinforcements of the year should remain under your command, you will take the necessary steps for their distribution and accommodation, and for putting the Province in the best state of defence possible, particularly Halifax, and Penobscot.

"Should General Haldimand, Commander-in-Chief in Canada, call upon you for assistance, you will furnish him, with whatever troops and stores you can with propriety spare from the service of the district under your command, which is of course to be the principal object of your attention.

"I have given directions to the Commissary General to have almost all the provisions and stores landed at Halifax, that the ships may be at liberty to proceed to Charlestown without delay."

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE.

1782, September 10. New York.—Approves proposal to send the South Carolina Regiment, North Carolina Volunteers, King's Rangers and North Carolina Highlanders to St. Augustine and bringing two battalions of the 60th Regiment to New York. To furnish Governor Tonyn with ordnance and stores and consult with him as to provisions for the people who go to St. Augustine in consequence of the evacuation of Charles Town. The Guards now in South Carolina to go to England, and after drafting the men of the Volunteers of Ireland, the officers also are to go home in the same fleet. The horse appointments sent from England are not to be landed. Artillery and heavy baggage to be sent to Halifax. Horses and cavalry appointments for 50 men to be sent to General Mathew in the West Indies; also 200 blacks to St. Lucia. To refer Mr. Cruden's affairs to the Treasury if he has any difficulty in settling them. The merchants must take steps they think best for the disposal of their property. All transports and suitable vessels will be sent from this place and the artillery might be embarked as ballast. Sends copy of a letter from the Treasury respecting the salaries of civil officers in South Carolina. Approves permission given to the inhabitants to make terms with the enemy.

PHILIPE ROCHEBLAVE to [SIR GUY CARLETON].

1782, September 10. Quebec.—Reminds him that he had approved his appointment of commandant and judge at the Illinois and of 200*l.* sterling per annum. Will not repeat what has been included in memorial addressed to London, nor what Lieutenant Governor Henry Hamilton may have said. Complains that after three years' humiliating treatment in captivity and a separation of five years from his family, he is still here without hope and without succour, not only having received no compensation, but not even the appointments due to him, rations, lodging nor forage, for the sole reason that he was not appointed by the present General of Canada. His special knowledge of American affairs. Endeavoured unsuccessfully in the previous year to render the nation a signal service by begging the previous Commander-in-Chief [Sir Henry Clinton] to take note of the danger of Lord Cornwallis's situation.

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to GOV. PATRICK TONYN.

[17]82, September 20.—Received letter of 31st July, with triplicate of dispatches entrusted to Mr. Moore, also addresses and resolutions of both Houses. The evacuation of St. Augustine or any other part of His Majesty's dominions must never be considered but as a measure of necessity submitting to a lesser evil to avoid a greater. Finds no representation made of the number of the people, their condition, their means, their wants, their total force when collected nor the natural strength of the province, without which he can make no estimate of events nor effectually co-operate with or safely countenance measures, the probability of whose success are not made in any way to appear. To send full information that he may judge the steps proper to be taken. Lieutenant General Leslie meantime is directed to send to St. Augustine the King's Rangers, South Carolina Regiment, North Carolina Regiment and North Carolina Highlanders to relieve the 60th regiment at St. Augustine, and to send a supply of ordnance and stores. Has paid two bills drawn on Clinton to prevent the credit being questioned; desires to know on what authority he proceeded.

MAURICE MORGANN to ANDREW ELLIOT.

1782, September 23. New York.—"I inclose for your information & that of Lieut. Genl. Campbell, a list of the prisoners contained in two cartel ships which arrived at Philadelphia from England. Of the ships which have arrived in other ports, I can give no distinct detail, but all the prisoners from England either have or will be delivered in the American ports.

Upon this occasion, & looking to that liberality of sentiment which prevails in England on the subject of exchanges,

I cannot help wondering that so many difficulties should be made here, and that on a point wherein not only the common interests of humanity are concerned, but the clear undoubted rights of prisoners. Exchange is a measure which cannot possibly wait on any tedious liquidations whatever, as in such case, prisoners, under the rigors of confinement, wou'd perish, and the question of course be lost in the discussion. One shou'd think by this strange union of a future interest with a present remedy, that America cou'd see no other security for her claims but a few miserable pledges, that are daily melting out of her hands, whereas a claim of money, if any due, is a national point & will remain unimpeached after every exchange has been made. Liquidation & exchanges have never been united in Europe, among other obvious reasons because each party considers their own imprisoned subjects, many or few, as entitled to immediate redress, with which the measure of liquidation is manifestly an incompatible thing. It is the prescribing of an instant remedy requiring one knows not how much time to prepare.

"It is plain that in England they have an unbounded confidence that America will not be outdone in acts of humanity and justice, & which appear so evidently to be such, and, in their nature, so indispensible, that they make part of the ordinary laws and regulations of war; for cartels are to be considered only as the mode of doing that, reciprocally, which previous to and independent of such cartels it is universally acknowledged ought to be done.

"I am Sir, wishing you all that success which the interests of so many unhappy prisoners on both sides require, Your most obedient & obliged servant."

SIR GUY CARLETON to MAJ. GEN. PATERSON, commanding at Halifax.

1782, September 24. New York.—Importance of the post of Penobscot. Would have no means neglected that may conduce to its safety especially at this time when there is information of a meditated attempt against it. Works to be constructed with a view to an establishment of greater consequence. Besides the defence of this year, could wish a plan formed, that availing itself of all the natural strength of the post might be given its full force and importance and would be glad to know what number of troops such a plan would require. Does not mean to confine him to the spot where the fort now stands; that establishment would comprehend the whole river if desirable. As the whole augmentation of the year remains with him hopes he will be able to repel any attempt against him.

1782, September 25. Halifax.—No. 1. The recruits lately arrived are disembarked and encamped and cover is being prepared for them against the winter. Has inspected the works and defences, some of them are in very bad order and the season is far advanced. Brigadier General Campbell is embarked for Penobscot; means to reinforce him with 400 men. Captain Mc Kinnon of the 84th and 40 men sent to take post at Annapolis to protect the frontier; an officer and 31 men of the 22nd regiment sent to protect the storeship "Berwick" at the request of Sir A. Hamond. The "Holderness" detained here for want of store-houses. Mr. Johnson making every exertion to unload as many victuallers as possible to be ready to sail with transports for Charlestown. Fears a scarcity of fuel. The military chest very low. Transmits proceedings of a Court of Enquiry held on Commissary Crawford, also a recommendation from an officer commanding the King's Orange Rangers, monthly returns, and names of the British recruits.

ADMIRAL HUGH PIGOT to [qy. GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON].

[qy. 1782, September.] "Formidable."—My Dear General, I trouble you with a copy of an order I have this moment received by the packet; no creature has seen it but thought it better to send it to you least I should not be able to wait on you myself in the morning. In addition to this I have a private letter from Ld Keppel, not quite so full as I could wish but he tells me I am sufficiently master of the secret matters from what passed between Ld Shelbourne and me of which I acquainted your Excellency that I believed from that conversation it was intended troops should go from this or Carolina and that I was directed to send every transport I could lay my hands on and that I believed likewise as Barbadoes was to be the place of rendezvous a force was likely to be sent out from England to meet there; this was a conversation not for me or you to act upon, further than the part I had to do as to transports, of which I have been able to give you a very small supply. Indeed I shall be happy to receive your commands as to the troops to be embarked in the fleet as well as to that of convoying those that may go in transports.

JOHN TAILYOUR to GEN. SIR GUY CARLETON.

[qy. after end of 1782, September.]—Memorial. That he had, on recommendation of a Board of Officers, provided a quantity of stores for the prisoners at Lancaster and being furnished with passport and invoice had arrived there safely and opened a store for the disposal of them. Had sold them only to the officers, soldiers and their wives, but after some weeks the whole of the stores and even his books and papers had been seized by order of the Executive Council of Pennsylvania; that he has memorialised the Council as well as General Lincoln but no answer is received, and the goods are still in their hands. Prays some steps may be taken for the recovery of the property.

MAJ. WILLIAM ANSTRUTHER to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 3. Bermuda.—Having three ensigns for the three battalion companies here, Ensign Grant has gone to New York for the recovery of his health. If His Excellency thinks it necessary to send another subaltern he requests he may be a Lieutenant, one being deficient for the Grenadier Company. If one of his own sons might be appointed to an ensigncy in the battalion or in any other, it would greatly recompense for the bad fortune he has had since 1755 having been obliged to purchase every commission he has had the honour to enjoy. P.S. Begs his acceptance of a turtle.

PHILLIPS CALLBECK to MAJ. GEN. JAMES PATERSON.

1782, October 3. Halifax.—Memorial. That in consequence of orders from General Howe dated 6 February 1776 (copy of which is annexed) he raised 85 men as appears by attestations, muster rolls and monthly returns. That the company have been constantly doing duty in the garrison of Charlotte Town, Newfoundland, Spanish River, and as marines on board of armed vessels. That in June last a detachment of the Kings Rangers under Captain Hayden arrived at Charlotte Town which Captain took upon himself the command. Begs to observe that his orders for raising corps are antecedent to those for the King's Rangers.

LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 3. Charlestown.—No. 11. I have received by the Narcissus the duplicate of your Excellency's letter of the 10th ultimo: I shall give every attention that the several articles of your instructions therein contained may be complied with.

The fleet for St. Augustine is nearly ready to sail; the Provincial troops mentioned in your letter will proceed to that place, where Lt. Colonel McArthur will be left with the command. I have despatched a vessel to advise them of this intention and to prepare the two Battalions of the 60th Regiment, who will be brought hither by the return of the transports; I have also embarked a supply of ordnance and stores for that garrison, and I shall give every possible assistance our magazines will afford to the Refugees, in the article of provisions, in the manner Mr. Brook Watson's directions have pointed out to the deputy Commissary General.

The Artillery has already been embarked in the manner Your Excellency recommends.

I could wish your Excellencys instructions had been fuller with regard to the sequestered negroes; their number, which is very considerable, renders this a subject of much importance, and I am not a little embarrassed how to dispose of them.

I must observe that the copy of the letter from the Treasury with regard to the salaries of the officers on the civil establishment of this Province did not come to my hands, I therefore imagine it to have been enclosed with the original of your Excellency's dispatch, the vessel with which, I understand, has been taken. I have the honor &c.

LT. COL. ROBERT DONKIN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 4. Queen St., Westminster.—"I trespassed on your Excelly's time last packet, requesting a renewal of my leave of Absence! 'till I see the destination of the two Companies of the R.G.B. (now arrived at Land guard Fort) that were captured at Providence! Since when, I find Captain Thomas Baddely dyed at Charlestown. As I apprehend the Capt Lieutenancy (vice Philips promoted) was never filled up, I beg leave to recommend the succession by seniority according to the inclosed; submitting entirely to your Excelly's pleasure to do therein as you shall think fit.

As I learn from Adjutant Dunn, that he would rather resign that commission than risk his health at Bermuda, I beg leave to recommend Sergt Major Thomas Lisle (my relation) to succeed him & go to Bermuda, & beg Mr. Dunn may remain in his command of Lieut & Pay Master, if agreeable to your will.

MAJ. FRED. MACKENZIE D.A.G. to LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE.

1782, October 5. New York.—" The Commander in Chief being out with the army at McGowan's pass, and the fleet to sail early in the morning for Charlestown, he has only had time to give me directions to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th Sept. (No. 10), and to express to you his entire approbation of your conduct in those matters which have lately occurred in Carolina, & which are particularized in that letter, and its several enclosures.

His Excellency desires me to say, that with respect to the prisoners, and Governor Mathews's letter, you will follow the instructions he has already given on those subjects ; and that in the case of the demands for rents of houses, and in all other money matters of that nature, the claimants should be referred to the Treasury.

I have it also in command from His Excellency to inform you, Sir, that he has some thoughts of sending Brigr. Generl. Stewart to command in East Florida, but that he will give further directions concerning it, by the next opportunity—at Penobscot, who has now 1000 men. Promises to use every exertion to secure the Province, but the means he is supposed to be possessed of are not to be calculated by his numbers, 2000 of which are raw, unformed recruits, scarcely able to carry, much less make use of their arms. Avoided appointing a major of brigade, so as to double the 5/- per diem to the military secretary, who has more business and responsibility than any other officer. Impracticability of adding to present defences. Exertions will hardly be sufficient to put what there already is, in proper state. The expenditure of money granted for the works and defences is enormous and cannot be checked while the contract and the execution are vested in the same person. Begs determination on enclosed memorial from Captain Callbeck [see 3 October] P.S. Sends list of expenditures in the Engineer Department. P.S.S. Has ordered the ship "Success" loaded with powder to sail under convoy of the "Hussar."

I enclose by the General's directions a copy of a letter he has lately received from a Mrs. Butler at Philadelphia." [See 16 September.]

LIEUT. COL. THOMAS BROWN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 9. St. Augustine.—Since the evacuation of Savannah the Creeks and Cherokees are favourably disposed toward Government. Major General Leslie desiring no offensive operations to be carried on by the Indians against the frontiers, has directed the officers to prevent their doing so and to pursue their hunting in order to divert their thoughts from war. Has always endeavoured to restrain the Indians from any wanton outrages. The Cherokees "have given uncommon proofs of their fidelity and attachment to His Majesty's interest; from the exposed situation of their towns to the incursions of the rebels from the frontiers of Pensylvania, Virginia, and the Carolinas they have twice been laid in ashes & their plantations destroyed—numbers of their women and children have been butchered in cold blood or burnt alive—, yet no species of rebel barbarity, or the loss of their towns, provisions, families or friends have induced them to abandon His Majesty's service. The rebels & Spaniards have been lavish of their promises & presents to corrupt the fidelity of the Creeks, and to detach them from our interest" but without success. . . "The Creeks on a late occasion manifested extraordinary proofs of their zeal and attachment to His Majesty's service. The chiefs of the nation having received information that Savannah being invested by the rebels the path to their friends was destroyed, immediately sent off Emistisicho (head warrior of the Upper Creeks) with one hundred and fifty chosen Indians. Having marched near five hundred miles, they understood that the rebel army under General Wayne was encamped within five miles of the town. Not disheartened at this intelligence, they determined to cut a passage through the rebel army or perish in the attempt. After a march of sixty miles without halting, they surprised and routed the rebels, and with a very trifling loss (the brave, gallant Emistisicho excepted) arrived in town." Stock of Indian presents is exhausted. Promises strict economy in the Indian Department but suggests that the services of Indians in general are not equal to the expense. Whether the purchase of their neutrality at present is an object His Excellency can best determine.

MAURICE MORGANN to EARL of SHELBURNE.

1782, October 9. New York.—On occasion of transmitting to the Treasury the quarterly account of warrants for money issued here, it became proper to make some observations on the novelty of paying the provincial corps by warrants for each corps after the manner in which the British are paid instead of issuing sums of money on account to a general agent as had been heretofore the practice. The Commander-in-Chief, not being minutely informed by what rule or upon what principles those payments were made or how they had been applied, and at a loss how to state the matter in a public dispatch with certainty, the packet being on the point of sailing, and time being wanting to make a perfect investigation, has desired him to state his own conceptions of the case to His Lordship. Understands that the whole Provincial Force has been heretofore paid by one agent or paymaster common to them all, that this agent has been nominated by the Commander-in-Chief for the time being, that he was allowed for this service thirty shillings per day, that he also witheld two pence in the pound upon the total pay of each corps in the quality of agent, and had also, it is understood, the advantage of a contingent man in each company, and that he retained also in his own hands one shilling in the pound upon the pay of the commission and staff officers, which deduction was held necessary in order to place the Provincial Forces on the same footing, in that respect, with the British. Presumes this will be a matter of investigation and account, though understood by many here that these advantages are to belong to these paymasters and agents as the perquisites of office. When the present Commander-in-Chief arrived here one of his first attentions was to reform this practice, and he accordingly ordered every separate corps of provincials to be paid separately by warrants granted to their own separate paymasters and the stoppage of one shilling in the pound to be detained in the deputy paymaster general's hands as a surcharge, and he has placed these corps, in other respects, on the same footing with the British, they being now paid regularly two months in advance and their stoppages of provisions charged for the two months preceding, and this regulation extends likewise to the stoppages of their men in the general hospital, but those stoppages having been paid up to the 24th of June by the former agent or his substitute here, the present warrants do not appear to carry any stoppages, or only a few, but those of the 24th of this month will contain the proper deduction of provision and hospital stoppages. Does not undertake to be correct in every particular but thinks he has made no considerable error.

LIEUT. GEN. LOSSBERG. "Opinion."

1782, October 11. Bayard's House.—Paper headed "Memorandum." "From the superiority of our ships, and the difficulty of the thing itself, a descent upon this Island by the East or North-rivers, or Harlem Creek, in view of a prepared army, is very improbable.

The works at King's bridge are the most likely to be attempted.

In this case it is my opinion, that small corps of observation be left at Harlem to observe the creek and opposite shore, and at Mcgowans Pass and Harlem Cape to observe the North river—and that the main army occupy the works at King's bridge, and there wait the event, or act according to the circumstances.

But if the works at King's bridge are to be considered as outposts not to be supported, and the main defence to be made at this side of Mcgowan's Pass, then the heights from Harlem Cape to Mcgowan's Pass will afford a very advantageous position, to be occupied according to the nature of the ground, without adhering to a regular line.

By such a position the front and flanks would be perfectly secured, especially as the light troops may be kept concealed in the bushes, in front and on both flanks of the Army.

The possibility of a descent by the East or North Rivers may be precluded by a proper number of armed vessels, or at least delayed, till a sufficient land force can arrive on the spot to oppose it.

Should a serious attack be attempted by laying bridges from Morosinia across Harlem Creek, the success must be rendered very doubtful, in the first place, from the opposition which we are able to make by our artillery from Snake hill and other batteries, in that case to be erected, and in the second place, because the enemy may be defeated en detail, by immediate attacks from proper detachments of the army, as it will not be possible for them to bring over a large force at once.

Lastly, should the enemy surmount all these obstacles, the last mentioned position on the Heights from Harlem Cape to Mcgowans Pass must still retain the same advantages." Endorsed :—Lieut. General Lossberg's opinion, relative to the position to be taken up in case the Enemy attempt an attack on New York Island.

GOV. PATRICK TONYN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 11. St. Augustine.—Has this moment received letter of 20 September. Captain Ball sails this afternoon. The resolves and addresses transmitted were the natural sentiments of loyal subjects. "The number of settlers previous to the evacuation of Georgia were about a thousand, and near three thousand blacks, the militia were about three hundred, and in case of rebellion or invasion, I am authorized by an Act of the Assembly to arm every male inhabitant within the province, and I apprehend about five hundred negroes might be trusted with arms. The Refugees from Georgia are about fifteen hundred whites and a thousand negroes, there are a few respectable families but they consist chiefly of backwoodsmen who are intolerably indolent ; perhaps about four hundred may be found fit to bear arms, but their appearance is against them, their families are in distress, and they are exceedingly dissatisfied. The provincial corps no doubt may be compleated from them. General Leslie will I presume give your Excellency the earliest information of the Refugees from Carolina destined for this province; and you will be able to judge of their capacity, and the additional strength they will afford us.'' Promises a plan of fortifications of this town and strength of the country; the fortifications are extensive and the place naturally strong; could its boundary be extended to St. Mary's river it would prove a commodious asylum for distressed Loyalists. Thanks for honouring his bills. Is directed by His Majesty to apply for every military defence and assistance.

REAR ADMIRAL ROBERT DIGBY to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 18. New York.—"Sir, Captain Elphinstone last night sent me a letter from General Martin by which I find your Excellency has given orders not to deliver the Culloden's and Defiance's guns to the Navy except in exchange for others to replace them. Perhaps your Excellency may not have been informed that they are only lent from the Navy and that a receipt was refused at the time because the Navy should have the right to demand them. Are we not serving one master? and can it make any difference to the nation whether the Army or the Navy purchase 22 twenty four pounders? If I have stated it right it appears to me, in point of regularity, the Army should purchase the guns, as it is the Army will want them after returning the guns to the Navy, which were only lent. But if Your Excellency should persist in refusing to part with them without others, I shall make no scruple of buying a sufficient number of the French frigates guns which are all English and new. I have the honor to be " &c.

SAMUEL HAKE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 18. New York, No. 86 Broadway.—Memorial. That in his loyal attachment to the Crown he chose to return to England. That he was sent out again by the Ministry under extraordinary sanctions. That he was taken on his passage and carried into Connecticut; thence obtained liberty to visit his connections, the Livingstons; was suffered to come into New York ostensibly to effect his exchange; was entrusted by the King's Commissioners in 1778 with a number of proclamations which he took with him in a quantity of goods amounting to 1600*l.* sterling; on account of the proclamations the goods were condemned and he himself confined, until, having formed with others a plan of extricating the loyalists from the tyranny they laboured under he escaped bringing with him the whole plan. Awaits still Sir Henry Clinton's promised action in the matter and meanwhile asks that rations, rooms and fuel, stopped the 20th May last, might be renewed. The losses sustained will appear from an enclosed deposition [see August 15th 1782]. On the back is a note dated 26 December 1782 quoting Minutes of Council of New York 20 December 1781 that if the Civil Courts of Justice were opened they would recommend that Hake should be committed to prison and prosecuted for libel; and also that he was then on the pension list at home for 200*l.* sterling per annum.

LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 18. Charlestown.—Secret. Sir, I dont find that the Admiral has wrote at all on the subject of Rebel property not being brought off from here to the officer commanding. As all searches on board of ship must be done by his Order, I imagine your Excellency's intentions will be better executed by a letter to Cap. Swyney on that head from Admiral Digby. It is a most interesting business, and I wish to do my best,—but must fall very short of your expectations, for officers long in this country look on negroes as their property, and the slaves are exceeding unwilling to return to hard labour, and severe punishment from their former masters, and from the numbers that may expect to be brought off, including their wives, and children, if to be paid for, will amount to a monstrous expence.

If your Excellency will please mention any number of blacks, or (if paid for) a certain sum of money to be paid (or receipts given) to a certain amount, this will be a guide for my conduct, for every department, and every officer, wishes to include his slave into the number to be brought off. They pretend them spys, or guides, and of course obnoxious, or under promises of freedom from Genl. Prevost, Ld. Cornwallis, Ld. Rawdon, or some other officer of rank, or free by proclamation.

I shall attend that all those that are paid for, or carryed off by permission, shall be sent to St. Lucia under a proper officer for the public service there.

If they are valued here, they will come very high, from the numbers already gone off.

If your Excellency intends them paid for, suppose receipts given of their names, occupations, ages, sex, owners &c. &c., and this to be settled by some men at home well informed in the value of slaves of all degrees, Genl. Green and their Governor dont seem to agree in this business, and if Mr. Greene continues to insult our front, while their commissions are here, I shall break off the business ; a letter is gone out on that head—the Hessians desert very fast, every precaution is taken to prevent it—

The troops are getting again in health—since the beginning of this month. I have the honor to be &c.

I should not wish the Admiral to know I write your Excellency on the subject of a letter to Cap. Swyney—

The want of cavalry makes Mr. Greene take the liberty mentioned in the letter—I have not 100 horses left from desertion from the S. Carolina Regiment, mounted.

SIR GUY CARLETON to GOV. WILLIAM BROWN[E].

1782, October 20. New York.—Sends by this conveyance to Bermuda one Thomas Poole an American who has been imprisoned some time as an acknowledged spy. "The same humanity which saved him from the customary fate of that class of men when detected, would probably have shortened the duration of his confinement could it have been effected without inevitable ruin to many loyalists in the country whose names he had contrived should be made known to him & who were from their acts of attention to him when under the character of a loyalist left entirely at his mercy. However as he has suffered the most severe confinement and is in consequence become very decrepied,'' he is sent with severe injunctions not to leave the island during the war, but he (Governor Browne) is asked to ensure his continuance there for the welfare of the persons mentioned. If too difficult, recommends that he be sent to one of the West India Islands where the possibility of his returning to this continent would be most impracticable. Clothes and subsistence are to be given him.

SIR GUY CARLETON to MAJOR GEN. JAMES PATTERSON.

1782, October 20.—No. 3. Acknowledges letters of 25th and 30th September. Is concerned that he found the works at Halifax in such bad order as to be prevented putting them in a proper condition before the setting in of the inclement season ; he is not on that account to delay sending the intended reinforcements to Penobscot. Approves of his complying with the request of the Lieutenant Governor for troops to be sent to the frontier, but they are to be of sufficient force to prevent the danger of being carried off. Having given orders for supply of coals from Louisbourg, had expected he was well supplied with fuel and would be able to assist New York. Has given directions for a proper hospital staff and a number of artificers to proceed to the province. Refers him to instructions given to Brigadier General Campbell with regard to public accounts. Sends copy of a letter from Lieutenant General Lossberg respecting his need of stores. ''The Commissary General having informed me that his assistant at Halifax has in consequence of your desire discontinued the Commissary at Penobscot without any other reason being assigned than a compliance with the desire of Brigadier General Campble '' he must desire that the Commissary before mentioned at Halifax be reinstated unless there has been misconduct. Lieutenant Rousselet returns to Halifax with stores needed for recruits, and several officers are also sent to improve the discipline among them.

JOHN GRAHAM to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 20. St. Augustine.—No. 2. Since his letter of 20th July the Chactaws have been sent home and he believes they will continue faithful to His Majesty. The Chickesaws have obstructed the navigation of the Spaniards up the Mississippi and taken several batteaux and one hundred prisoners, among them the commandant's lady of the Illinois. She was immediately released and sent to demand the liberation of the inhabitants of the Natchez settlement in exchange for those taken in the vessels. Has encouraged the Indians in his district in planting and hunting. Is indebted for the information in the enclosed paper to Mr. Robert Ross who resided in that country many years as merchant and planter. He has been lately at the Havana. Indian presents received but in a bad condition; delivered half to Colonel Brown. Promises to use all possible economy but considers the safety of East Florida and its inhabitants depends on preserving the friendship of the Indians to the southward.

COMTE DE ROCHAMBEAU to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, October 27. At Camp.—"When Admiral Pigot has sent back the servants belonging to the officers of the French army, that were on board the Eagle, a mistake has happened the cause of which can only be the secretary of the Baron de Viomenil who made the return. Your Excellency will see by the return herein joined, that those whom I claim belong to the Marquis de Laval and to the prince de Broglio : the first was happy enough last year after the siege of York to lend 1,500*l.* sterg. to Earl Cornwallis ; the second is son of a marshall of France whose reputation is known to both nations. I make this observation to your Excellency only to the end that this affair may be ultimately finished. As I do not know who is the Admiral that now commands, I can only address myself to your Excellency that thro' your means, it may be done, being intimately persuaded of your Excellency's and the Admiral's generosity."

Signed letter. Vol. 15, No. 107. 2 pages.

Enclosure :—

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to [EARL CORNWALLIS].

1782, October 29. New York.—Received letters of 4th and 6th August. Has considered Captain Asgill for a long time past as out of any danger. Will be glad to reward Captain Cameron. Sent a letter to his Lordship relative to his exchange, and also to Lord Shelburne showing the measures taken to obtain from General Washington or Congress an express declaration of exchange, which, however, have been unsuccessful. "Instead of that humane attention to the rights of individuals which prevails in Europe, they seem to practise in this country a studied incivility."

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to SIR GEORGE YONGE.

1782, October 29. New York.—No. 9. Receipt of letters of 9th and 20th July and 1st August. Has considered the list of officers sent and encloses a return of those for whom provision should be made on the establishment at home; thinks the rest of the appointments of the army being merely to answer local exigencies should be paid out of contingencies. Returns also a list of officers of garrisons with remarks by which he will perceive that he is unacquainted with the residence, even of the names of many mentioned and as some of the places mentioned are not in English possession it is obvious there can be no reason for the continuing of the appointment unless as a reward for service.

Draft. Vol. 48, No. 86. 2 pages.

Enclosures :—

List of general and staff officers, and officers of the hospitals to be provided for on the establishment at home.

Vol. 48, No. 89. Copy. Vol. 90. 1 page each.

List of Garrison officers in America sent from the War Office and returned with remarks. The list opens with barrack masters of Fort St. George, Cumberland, Chartres and Kaskaskias and "communication to Philadelphia" at 4/- per day. Remarks :—"I have no account whatever of the existence of any of these officers except Fort Cumberland; the appointments seem to me to be in a military view totally unnecessary." The Garrisons include St. Augustine, Nova Scotia, Placentia Louisbourg, St. John's Island and Bermuda.

LIEUT. COL. ARCH. MCARTHUR to LIEUT. GEN. LESLIE.

1782, October 30. St. Augustine.—Dear Sir, On the 17th I was honored with your letter of the 8th & on the 25th with yours of the 20th inst^t.; every possible endeavour has been used when the weather and this horrid bar would permit to land the troops and provisions; the former have been several days on shore & the latter are landing as quick as the few craft here can effect.—I am sorry to inform you that much too high a proportion of the provisions have been send to St. John's, as you will see by the inclosed return; I remonstrated on this head to Capt. Edwards, whose answer was, that want of time, proper craft, & ballast for the ships off this Bar rendered it impossible to bring the proportion wanted, here, before the Hornet & Adamant sailed.—These provisions are now landing in the Bluff at St. John's where I have sent an officer's party to cover them, & ordered Capt. Howe to station his galley so as best to protect them till they are brought here by small craft; which will incur a heavy expence to Government, exclusive of the risk; about one fourth would have been sufficient to have landed at St. Johns. Col. Glasier informed you he had appointed Mr. Winniott a commissary for the refugees at five shillings per day:—I have found it necessary to continue him, and formed a committee of four of the principal refugees viz: Colonels Ball & Cassells for Carolina & Cols. Tattnall & Douglas for Georgia, to ascertain by oath the number of refugees & blacks & superintend the delivery of provisions;—they request three or four assistants for one month to deliver out the provisions & prevent confusion & impositions; I have taken upon me to allow them two at half a crown each per day, which I hope you will not disapprove of. The refugees not being yet all landed we have not been able to ascertain their numbers, or that of the blacks. —I expect by next opportunity Willson & I will be able to send a few blacks rebel property as you desire.

A vessel bringing the clothing of the new garrison over the Bar two days ago was cast away on it:—The clothing is got out with little damage, but the master of a transport humanely coming to her assistance, his boat overset & he with three or four of his men were drowned.

I am much obliged to you for what you say touching the Roti. I purpose immediately to replace the gunns at the Matanza fort & make it an officer's post, it is the key of this place,—I shall also have either a galley or gunboat there.

Now that Providence is out of our hands, would not this be a very proper place for a company or two of old fogies, they might smoke their pipes & tell their lies in great tranquility without fear of flux or ague.

We are all anxiety for a confirmation of the naval victory, should it prove true, I flatter myself you will not quit Charlestown.

The new garrison is likely to be much distressed for blankets, the 60th who are just gone on board having taken the barrack blankets with them ;—I remonstrated pretty strongly to Col : Glasier, but he was positive as to the 4th Battn.—and to have ordered the third to leave theirs might have been attended with serious consequences. The Barrack Master is possessed of the regl. receipts given when the furniture was issued. Please accept a small cask of sweet oranges. I have the honor to be, with the most grateful sense of your friendship, &c.

Have these corps leave to enlist men ? Col. Brown has been good enough to offer his assistance in pointing out lands & procuring settlements for the refugees on St. John's River, & I shall furnish them with the publick boats for that purpose.

LIEUT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

N.D. [1782, October.]—Secret. "Sir, If a joint letter was wrote from your Excellency, and Admiral Digby, as Commissioners, to the naval officer here and the officer commanding on shore, it would be a guide in regard to our conduct on quitting the place, for people may differ in their opinions in regard to property, and the nature of the two services makes a material difference; and it must be observed the officer on shore has no power on board.

Queré—if an officer takes a negroe belonging to the enemy in action, with his master's horse, is that negroe looked on to be the property of the officer who took him or not.

Colonel Moncrieff advises the work on Shoots Folly to be destroyed, for they may from thence insult the shipping after all is on board, if detained by a contrary wind from getting to 5 Fathom hole—

I imagine we shall be about 4 weeks still here, for neither the York or Halifax fleets are arrived; the one for Halifax sails in two days, and the one for Jamaica very soon.

So your Excellency may still have time to send me your further instructions—

I must entreat you not to mention my having wrote about the naval business—to the Admiral."

BRIG. GEN. JOHN CAMPBELL to MAJOR GEN. PATERSON.

1782, November 1. Fort George, Penobscot.—". . . . Last night I received the honor of your letter of the 6th of last month; every attention in my power shall be paid to the defence of this post while I have the honor to command in it, at the same time I beg leave to call your attention to a conversation I had the honor to have with you at Halifax respecting this place, when I took the liberty to inform you, that this fort is commanded by a tract of high land, the summit of which is about one thousand yards from this fort; if a proper work is constructed on that height and well supplyed with cannon it is scarce possible for the enemy to take this fort, while we can keep possession of that work, and without that work, I do not think this place secure.

I wrote fully to the Commander in Chief on this subject and a copy of his answer of the 5th of August I delivered to you before I left Halifax; I now request to have your orders regarding the same.

I am sorry to inform you that since my last letter to you, seven more of the Brunswic Troops deserted, four of whom were retaken up the river Penobscot.

This fort is so small and the barracks so near to one another, that it is necessary to have one or two fire engines sent here by first opportunity, and a reinforcement of some artillery men.''

BRIG. GEN. BENEDICT ARNOLD to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, November 3. London.—"Sir, I did myself the honor to write to your Excellency the 13th May, and I inclosed a letter for Sir Henry Clinton respecting my Regiment, but as the letter may have miscarried, I take the liberty of inclosing a copy.—Since my last I am informed by Captain Frink, that he has requested of your Excelly. to have his troop draughted from my regiment and attached to the Queen's Rangers, or some other Corps. A request so very unreasonable and unjust, I am convinced you never will comply with, especially as it is unprecedented and would deter any person in future from attempting to raise a new corps.—It was at the request of Sir Henry Clinton (which General Robertson well knows) that I undertook to raise a regiment, who promised me every incouragement, and desired me to give my sons commissions in the regt. and assured me that they should have leave of absence as long as I choose to keep them at school.—In consequence of which I had the full complement of men inlisted for my son Richard, and Sir Henry Clinton was pleased to appoint him a lieutenant, and afterwards sent him to me in England for his education. Capt. Frink now informs me that application has been made to your Excellency to put him on half pay, and that Cornet Cagney should do duty in his room, which I am convinced you will do, as he had leave of absence, but if it is necessary that he should join the regiment, I will bring him out with me, tho he is but twelve years old and can be of little use in the regiment.

I employed Lieut. Furlong to inlist fifteen men for my son Henry, to entitle him to a lieutenancy, which number of men were inlisted by him and inspected, and I paid the bounty, but by the extraordinary measure which has been taken with my regiment (for I don't find that it has been extended to any other) the deserters from Mr. Washington's army have been claimed by the navy, and I have lost the bounty money, near one hundred guineas, and my son his appointment, notwithstanding his men were inspected, and the county paid in consequence of it.—If the men were improper recruits the Inspector General ought not to have passed them. It is very hard that I should lose the bounty and appointment too, and equally so upon the officer who inlisted the men, provided he did not know they had been in the navy, which I verily believe he did not.

Most of the officers of the regiment as well as myself have made great sacrifices by joining the King's army and have been at a very great expence in raising men, and I have the fullest confidence that your Excellency will not in my absence, suffer the Inspector General, by his misrepresentations, to injure the regiment, or any particular officer of it, but that there will be no distinction made between the Provincial Corps, altho Colonel Innes has declared his intention to break up and ruin mine.

I am informed by my agent in New York that my batt and forage money has been stopped in consequence of my absence. I had made the necessary preparation to return to New York in consequence of the King's pleasure signified to me for that purpose by Lord Amherst, but was detained by Lord Shelburne, who assured me that my detention should not in the least affect my pay or emoluments, and Mr. Secy Townshend now assures me that he thinks it reasonable, and that I ought to receive it. Had I been in New York I should with other officers have received not only my batt and forage money, but rations of forage and provisions, and have had a house provided for me. But as I have been detained here at a great expence and contrary to my intention, I trust that your Excellency will order my batt & forage money to be paid to me—had I been absent on my private affairs I should not have asked it.—

I have the honor to be &c.

Nov. 6th.—Since writing the foregoing I have wrote to Lord Shelburne respecting my batt and forage money, and this morning I called on Mr. Townshend who was not at home, but Mr. Nepean his Secty assured me that he had received orders from him to write to your Excellency that my batt & forage money should be paid; as I have been detained in England by Lord Shelburne."

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to COMTE DE ROCHAMBEAU.

1782, November 4. New York.—Received yesterday his letter of 27th October as Captain Elphinstone was taking leave to go on board for England; the letter to him was immediately placed in his hands together with that for Admiral Digby. Captain Elphinstone promised to deliver the latter, Admiral Digby being on shipboard. It was Admiral Pigot's intention to return all the servants and give every accommodation; hopes nothing has happened to frustrate it. The letter to Mr. La Touche has been given into Elphinstone's care, in whose ship he is embarked.

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to MAJ. GEN. JAMES PATERSON.

1782, November 7.—No. 4. Has received his of 8th October by the Hussar frigate. Hopes the reinforcement would have arrived at Penobscot in time to put themselves under cover before the severe weather. Regrets the stores asked for have not been forwarded by this convoy as the troops at New York are in great distress for blankets. To send blankets, coats and other stores by the first safe convoy, also to supply what is required for the Hessian troops. The necessities of the Hanau, Waldeck, Anhalt and Anspach troops make it absolutely requisite they should have what they want most. Major General Riedesel represents that the Brunswick corps in Canada need the clothing and stores which arrived at Halifax in last fleet from Germany. As the season forbids these being forwarded this year requests Paterson to make the necessary arrangements for relieving their recruits from Penobscot and sending them with the clothing and stores to Canada as early as possible in the spring. Makes no doubt he will be able to control abuses in the conduct of public accounts and in the business of the Engineer Department. A reference to the dates of commissions will determine the dispute between Captains Callbeck and Hayden. Has no objection to 5/- a day being added to his military secretary.

RICHARD HILL (Inspector of ferry at Brooklyn) to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, November 9. New York.—Petition. By the solicitations of his kinsman Crean Brush he came from Ireland to New York and settled in the county of Cumberland where he had strong expectations of being appointed sheriff. That by the incursions of the banditti headed by the noted Remember Baker, Eathen (sic) Allen, Robert Cochran and the "villian who afterwards assassinated General Gordon in Canada" all justice was stopped, he himself was committed to prison, despoiled of his property and banished. That he afterwards carried dispatches to General Howe at Boston and served in a volunteer company; was appointed assistant to Mr. Brush in storing and carrying away all property which on the evacuation of Boston might be useful to Washington's army. On their passage to Halifax they were taken prisoners and carried back to Boston, treated with great cruelty, committed to a dungeon and detained in captivity nine months. Banished to Penobscot, he and his wife escaped in a fishing boat and being picked up by a sloop of war, were landed in Nova Scotia and thence obtained passage to New York. States that he has never received either pay or subsistence. That in the execution of his duty he got his thigh broke and that his wife is in a languishing state of health. Asks the honour of a commission in the Royal Garrison Battalion of invalids or a permanent support on the Irish Establishment in his native country. Followed by a number of certificates and recommendations.

1782, November 12. Head Quarters New York.—Sends list of men belonging to the 79th Regiment who arrived in New York last June; they are in need of all necessaries. Sir Guy Carleton has ordered those fit for service to be drafted into the 54th regiment and the remainder invalided home to England. Has transmitted to his (Humphry's) agent the certificates entitling his regiment to their usual allowances. Lieutenant Smith will receive directions to join his regiment shortly. Two from the 79th arrived at Bermuda on 18 June intending to proceed to Jamaica. The men drafted represent that there is a considerable arrear of pay due to them.

DAVID BARCLAY (captain and paymaster 76th regt.) to BRIG. GEN. ABERCROMBY, Quarter Master General.

1782, November 13. New York.—Has made enquiry respecting the allowance made to the officers, prisoners by the convention of Saratoga. "I understand that while they remained in the country, they had a weekly allowance for lodging and fuel, corresponding to their rank.—This allowance was regularly paid them in the country by the Paymaster General of that army, in consequence of warrants for that purpose signed by General Phillips, & after his departure by the next senior officer.—They had their authority for signing these warrants from Sir Henry Clinton who without directions from home, but of his own accord, ordered the same allowance to be made to these officers, as was paid to the officers at Boston for lodging & fuel . . . .

Besides that allowance it appears that about the beginning of the year 1781 General Riedesel made application by letter to Lord George Germain for batt & forage money for the officers. An extract from this letter was laid before Lord Amherst, who gave it as his opinion, that he did not think it would be right the officers of the Convention army should receive batt & forage money like those employed in the field—but on account of the particular circumstances of that unfortunate army his Lordship thought, that it might be recommended to Sir Henry Clinton, if he should think proper, to make some allowance or douceur to those officers out of the contingencies of the army in America, in aid and by way of recompence in part of the heavy expenses they had been put to. Lord George Germain transmitted Genl. Amherst's opinion to Sir Henry Clinton to whom it was left to apportion the quantum.—Sir Henry Clinton upon this proposed a certain sum for each officer, which he submitted to a board of General Officers, who (as it appears by their letter to Capt. Smith the Secretary) gave it as their opinion, that the allowance his Excellency proposed was perfectly proper. Accordingly Sir Henry Clinton on the 22nd July, 13th Octr. & 5th Decr. 1781, granted three separate warrants for the payment of the allowance, to the British, Brunswick & Hessian officers. The allowance made to each Officer appears from the distributions annexed to these warrants. The distribution seems to be made on very just principles. The whole officers have the allowance from summer 1778 (165 days batt & forage being paid them the beginning of that year) and from that time continued till the officer was exchanged or went home. Those who remained in America were allowed it for the whole time, till exchanged . . . ."

MAJ. GEN. JAMES PATERSON to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, November 13. Halifax.—No. 4. "The fleet which sailed for Spanish River to load coal, is safely returned and fully laden; with the exertions now using in cutting wood, I have no doubt we shall have a sufficient supply of fuel for the troops.

Being disappointed in the return of one of the transports from Penobscot, and impossible to procure another here, I had it only in my power to send half of the intended reinforcement to that post, it consisted of the Anspach Yagers, as by the inclosed return. They sailed three days ago under convoy of the Atalanta and Savage sloops of war, by which I sent three thousand pounds to Brigr. General Campbell.

I have directed Colonel Hatzfild who commands the foreign troops, lately arrived, to detain such baggage as he shall think necessary for this service, the remainder goes to New York by the present convoy.—The transport Holderness, loaded with camp equipage and stores, I have also ordered to proceed together with the ordnance ship Lady Amherst with this convoy to New York. Out of this last mentioned ship, I have directed the ordnance storekeeper here, to take out all the arms reported to me to be in a bad state, four hundred and fifty barrels of powder for the use of this garrison, and one hundred barrels for the sea service. The Store Keeper's report of the state of the arms is inclosed.

The Superintendent of the Hospitals must have been misinformed, as no medicines have arrived here by the last fleet.

By the inclosed state of the Provincial Forces in this province, it will evidently appear how absolutely necessary will be a reformation in that Corps. I have directed an inspection of the men unfit for duty in order to their being discharged.

The troops are under cover, the British recruits are hutted about five miles from hence on the communication to Fort Sackville.

I beg leave to submit to Your Excellency's consideration, the inclosed letter from the surgeon to the hospital, requesting that the mates in that department here, may be put on the same footing with those at New York; and also a memorial from Lieut. Governor Desbrisay.

With respect to the public accounts of this command, I have only to observe that every attention shall be paid to the strict regulation of Your Excellency; And I have directed, that all accounts, prior to my command, shall be closed, and sent in agreeable to orders signified to me by the Adjutant General.

The short notice I had of the fleets sailing prevents my sending the necessary lists and customary certificates respecting the recruits to be drafted into the 70th Regiment, by the next opportunity I will do myself the honor of transmitting them.

Herewith are sent lists of the several warrants granted by me, for the public service, to the 30th October, and also a letter from the Deputy Pay Master on the difficulty of procuring money here.

A detachment of the 42th of one subaltern, one serjeant and forty privates arrived here a few days ago from St. John's Newfoundland in order to join their regiment. I have ordered them on board the Berwick navy store ship and the ordnance ship Lady Amherst.

In consequence of the inclosed letter, I have granted leave of absence, to the Chief Engineer, Captain Spry, and shall send for Captain Hartcup, engineer at Penobscot, to remain here till his return.

Not being competent to decide on the inclosed memorial from Captain Callbeck respecting the cloathing &c. of his company, on the Island St. John, it is submitted for Your Excellency's determination.

Brigadier General Campbell having appointed a Mr. Shaw to do the duty of Deputy Provost Martial at five shillings p. day, with the rank of junior captain, I am to beg the honor of Your Excellencys decision.

The letter in cypher for General Haldimand is forwarded. I have the honor " &c.

ALEXANDER THOMSON to MAJOR GEN. JAMES PATERSON.

1782, November 13. Halifax.—Money for the expenses of the army in this district is procured by bills of exchange drawn on the remitters in London and occasionally by specie sent them in the King's ships. If money cannot be had for bills but at a discount such discount is government loss. The last supply of specie in October 1780 enabled him to keep the exchange at par "but the demands of Government in the different departments here, being by far too large in proportion to the trade and circulating specie of the Province, and the sending specie from hence to Penobscot, which throws it totally out of our circulation, the exchange could not any longer be supported." Informed Brigadier General Campbell last August that he could only procure money for his bills at a 5 per cent. loss to government and at this rate the exchange has remained ever since. Finds he cannot procure money sufficient even at this rate; is therefore of opinion, that until he can receive a supply of specie the government must have even a greater loss in the exchange, also that it will be difficult if not impossible to obtain money for the payment of warrants the Major General may have occasion to issue.

GOV. PATRICK TONYN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, November 13. St. Augustine.—The King's Rangers, North and South Carolina Regiments have safely arrived in this province, also an engineer, a reinforcement of the Royal Artillery, ordnance and stores, and loyal refugees. "It is with pleasure, Sir, I inform you of a considerable accession of strength by the arrival of His Majesty's distinguished Loyalists from Charlestown, many of whom, merchants and planters, are substantial, and although I deeply regret the occasion of their coming, it will prove I hope, a happy era to this province; the merchants will be accommodated with houses in town, and the planters notwithstanding their present melancholy situation, will find themselves in a short time comfortably and I trust advantagiously settled in a healthy climate and fertile soil . . . . I fix them on tracts of land which had been granted by virtue of a royal mandate, and which have not by the former grantees been cultivated, agreeable to the terms of the grant." "The late successes of His Majesty's fleet in the Channel will animate us with joyful prospects that the nation has already experienced the lowest abyss of adversity . . . ." and that the deluded subjects of America may listen to terms of accommodation. Returns his and the refugees' thanks for provision granted by Government for their subsistence. Believes the province will be well defended when all the expected reinforcements arrive. Has requested Lt. Colonel Mc. Arthur to direct Mr. Wilson, the engineer, to make out immediately a plan of the fortifications, and a sketch of the natural situation of the place in respect of defence; two gallies are arrived, three gunboats were built here, but are now in disrepair, several others will be wanted for a sufficient defence . . . Begs his Excellency to co-operate with the Admiral in making provision for the defence of the trade by one or more sloops of war, and by ordering a convoy at some fixed period for carrying off produce. Recommends that Mc. Arthur should be told to co-operate with the civil government, as their union would tend to strength and harmony. Has received instructions from Germain to apply to the Commanders-in-Chief for all assistance required to protect East Florida, and also for expenses incurred for same; encloses copies of vouchers and particulars. Suggests that the civil and the military authority be united in himself. P.S. 14 Nov. Encloses letter received from Lieutenant Colonel Mc. Arthur.

GOV. PATRICK TONYN to LIEUT. COL. ALEX. LESLIE.

1782, November 14. St. Augustine.—Has received his letters of the 9th and 10th October. Captain Edward's return will inform him of the disembarkation of the troops and the loyalists and of the completion of the stores. Desires to return the hearty thanks of himself and refugees for the ample provision sent for the subsistence of themselves and negroes; hopes Government will approve of his supplying any agricultural implements they may need. The merchants will be accommodated in town with houses and the planters will soon be comfortably settled; they appear satisfied with the country and adverse to any authority of Congress. Considers this province will be well defended when the promised reinforcements arrive, and that it will be able to withstand any invasion. Agrees with Leslie that no negroes, who belong to rebels, should be clandestinely moved to the West Indies or from this province; has given orders to the Attorney General accordingly. Is pleased to know there is some prospect of compensation being granted to the loyalists for their losses. Has need of ordnance and field artillery.

THOMAS BROWN, Supt. of Indian Affairs, to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, November 15. Fort Pickolata, St. John's River.—The Creek and Cherokee Indians continue favourably disposed towards the English Government. Leslie having requested that no offensive operations be carried on by Indians against the frontiers, has given orders to the officers within his department accordingly to persuade them to pursue their hunting within their territories. The rebels and Spaniards have endeavoured to detach the Creeks and Cherokees but without success. "The Creeks on a late occasion manifested extraordinary proofs of their zeal and attachment to his Majesty's service. The chiefs having received information that Savannah being invested by the Rebels the path to their friends was destroyed, immediately sent off Emistisicho (head warrior of the Upper Creeks) with one hundred and fifty chosen Indians—who having marched near five hundred miles, understood that the Rebel Army under General Wayne was encamped within five miles of the town, but not disheartened at this intelligence they determined to cut a passage through them, and join us, or perish in the attempt: and after a march of sixty miles without halting, they surprised and routed the Rebels with a trifling loss, the brave gallant Emistisicho excepted. Those Indians accompanied me from Savannah to this province and are returned to their nation." Has need of more presents. The strictest economy will be practised. As there will be no general left in the Southern District after the evacuation of Charlestown, has ordered Mr. Shaw, the deputy, to join Lieutenant Governor Graham in a memorial for a warrant of impress for 3000*l.* to defray coming expenses.

LT. COL. ARCHIBALD MC. ARTHUR to LT. GEN. ALEX. LESLIE.

1782, November 15. St. Augustine.—Stores and provisions landed here and at St. John's. Sends a return of refugees as far as can be collected; they are in great need of plantation tools; hopes these can be forwarded. The Governor and himself are using every means to disperse them from this town and the bluff on St. John's. Metanza Fort is occupied by their officers' party with two 18 pounders; intends sending another to the block house at the bar of St. John's where there is only a carronade. Two masters of Spanish vessels (prisoners) arrived at St. Augustine state that only three or four battalions returned to Cuba, and that the rest of the troops remain at Hispaniola and fifteen sail of the line are at Havannah. Hopes he has received confirmation of Howe's victory and that he intends remaining at Charlestown. The new garrison is "beginning to get into method, they are busy at drill and their sick list diminishes fast. Mr. Willson sends twenty eight negroes mostly rebel property; we shall probably be able to send some more next time, 'tis not easy to ferret them out. I enclose a petition from James Temples."

SAMUEL HAKE to GOV. JAMES ROBERTSON.

1782, November 16. New York, 13 Duke St.—A long letter protesting against the treatment experienced. His astonishment that his memorial was to be submitted to a Council after the severity he had received from them. That he is refused a copy of the proceedings of the Board. Flatters himself that when the depositions and memorial of so respectable a body of loyalists relative to Colonel Roger Morris's conduct is fairly stated to the impartial public on the other side of the Atlantic, which he will be under the necessity of doing in vindication of his own character, it will see the principle actuating him in writing the letter to the Adjutant General 15th December last and will fully justify him. Reminds that on arrival at this garrison he communicated the embassy he had in charge and that he was refused a proposal for his exchange and a small loan. That his representation as to the ruinous condition of his property in the city held on mortgage by Mr Livingstone is not attended to. That information is given to prejudice His Excellency against him. Complains of the withdrawal of the billet (ordered by Sir Henry Clinton) on 28 May last and of his inability to get any redress and concludes by asking, if his memorial of the 18th ulto. cannot be complied with without a reference to the Council, the favour of its return.

JOHN CALEF, of Penobscot, to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, November 20. Penobscot.—Memorial. Representing his services as surgeon in the last and former war, a representative and magistrate of Massachusetts. That he fled to Penobscot, assisted General Maclean in erecting Fort George; was appointed inspector, and in May 1780 was deputed by the inhabitants to go to England to lay certain grievances before the throne. That before his departure he agreed with Mr. Henry Goldthwait by the consent of Brigadier General Campbell according to the copy annexed [qy. see 4 May 1780] but when General Campbell was appointed to the chief command there he set aside this contract, appointed a Mr. Robert Pagan and now says he cannot remove him except by order of the Commander-in-Chief. Begs the case may be considered and the employment be returned to him.

JOHN CALEF to MAURICE MORGAN[N].

1782, November 20. Fort George, Penobscot.—That he was appointed inspector and commissary at Penobscot at 7/6 per day; that after his visit to England in May 1780 he was appointed assistant surgeon to the hospitals in Nova Scotia with the pay of 10/- a day. On his return he intimated to Brigadier General Campbell his wish to resume his former employments as he could carry them on without prejudice to that of assistant surgeon but was told that a Mr. Robert Pagan had been appointed and he would not turn him out. Refers to Captain Henry Mowat for his character. Begs that his memorial be laid before his Excellency and that the contract be made good, also to be appointed superintendent of the Indians. Thinks nothing short of the loss of natural powers and faculties of General Campbell could have induced him to supersede him.

States that he has constantly drawn for provisions and fuel from 1779 but only drew forage for three horses until the 7th December of that year, when Mr. Wier, then Commissary General, called on him and told him there was a scarcity of forage, and as he did not keep the number of horses allowed, would he discontinue drawing. That he received from Mr. Wier what forage he had occasion for, which was not much, as Mr. Wier allowed him the use of his horses for his (Morris's) coach. But from the time Mr. Watson has entered on the duties of Commissary General he has not received any forage at all. Begs his name may therefore be added to the list.

Major James Gordon to Sir Guy Carleton.

1782, November. Chatham.—" Sir, Captain Asgill will have the honour to deliver this to Your Excellency, who is at last set at liberty by a Vote of Congress after a long and disagreeable confinement, which he bore with that manly fortitude that will for ever reflect honour upon himself. During the period that he was close confined he had frequent opportunities of making his escape, and was often urged to do it by anonymous correspondents, one of which assured him that if he did not make use of the present moment an order would arrive next day from General Washington that would put it out of his power for ever. This letter he gave me to read, and at the same time told me (that unless I wou'd advise him to do it) he never wou'd take a step that might be the means of counteracting measures adopted by Your Excellency to procure his release, or might bring one of the officers of Lord Cornwallis's army into the same predicament, and that he had made his mind up for the worst consequences that cou'd happen from rebel tyranny.

I shall expect Your Excellency's commands at Lancaster for which place I set out tomorrow by the way of Philadelphia, where I shall visit our prisoners in gaol at that place and I will take the first opportunity to transmit returns to your Adjutant General. I have the honour to be," &c.

BROOK WATSON, Commissary Gen., to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, December 4. New York.—Submits alterations in arranging the business of the sundry departments under his control, and requests His Excellency's direction and advice for carrying them into execution if it shall be found expedient to do so. The duty of his predecessors had been confined "to the receiving, providing and issuing provisions only till the year '76, when the forage department returned to that of the Commissary General, hence, he has fulfilled the duties of providing and applying vessels, boats, waggons, waggon horses, stores, &c.—heretofore provided and applied by the Quarter Master General; of wood, coals, candles, barrack bedding, and utensils provided by the Barrack Master General; and of all other necessaries and conveniences commonly called contingencies to the army; by which he is now discharging the extensive duties of general receiver, provider and distributor of all things necessary to the army.'' The Commissary General is an accountant and cannot give the general inspection and control which is necessary. Suggests that he be authorized to deliver all the wood, forage, provisions, vessels, waggons, horses and stores to George Brinley, the Deputy Commissary General, Gregory Townshend, the Assistant Commissary General, Major Molleson, the Waggon Master General, and T. A. Coffin, the Storekeeper, holding them responsible, and giving them the charge of receiving and issuing them and of receiving and paying money for the contingent expenses. That they all becoming public accountants may receive warrants in their own names for sums necessary to carry on the service, their accounts and their memorials for money being examined and approved by the Commissary General. That one cashier or paymaster be employed for the whole department in this district through whom all money should be passed. By this means the whole business may be properly "chequed" and regularly conducted. All orders from Head Quarters to go to him and by him be branched to their proper offices without confusion and the whole be brought to act under one directing head—who will be at liberty to visit, examine, control and direct the subordinate officers at the different posts.

JOHN CRUDEN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, December 13. Charles Town.—On his return to Charlestown found that the garrison was to be withdrawn. "It therefore only remained for me to apply to General Leslie, to know his pleasure, respecting the property of the enemy in my hands. And for a final settlement of my audited accounts: in answer to my first request, the General was pleased to inform; he had it in command from you, that no property should be carried (except Negroes obnoxious to punishment; whose predicament should be decided by a Board instituted for the purpose). And that I must accordingly, take those measures, which appeared most eligible—to the second I was informed that your Excellency's pleasure was, that I should be referred to the Treasury, for the final settlement of my accounts.—I shall not presume to obtrude my private feelings on your Excellency upon receiving these answers. My balance then being considerably above five thousand pounds sterling." Has taken such steps as appeared necessary for the property. Meanwhile his private concerns have suffered very materially, and he is compelled to go first to the West Indies to extricate himself from his present embarrassments. Begs that his peculiar hardship may be taken into consideration and as he has sacrificed a liberal property, begs he may not be oppressed with the difficulties of his office, and that payment of his accounts upwards of 4,000*l.* may be ordered and paid to his brother, Mr. James Cruden, who will present this.

BROOK WATSON to LIEUT. COL. DELANCEY, Adj. Gen.

1782, December 14. New York.—Acknowledging letters accompanying a memorial of William Abbot, merchant of Halifax, as to scarcity of flour there. In answer as to measures to be taken suggests, that as the season is so far advanced as to render navigation dangerous and as the King's magazines there are supplied with flour to victual the troops 600 days, 1,000 barrels may be spared to the inhabitants, and as both Mr. Abbot and Messrs. Cochran have employed merchants at New York to buy and send them flour in case permission should be given to export it, that these correspondents be permitted to buy and deliver into the King's stores here 1,000 barrels, for which the Commissary General shall pass his receipts with orders on the assistant-commissary at Halifax for the like quantities to be given up to them at Halifax for the purpose of being sold to the inhabitants at such price as Governor Parr shall think reasonable.

Gov. Archibald Campbell to Sir Guy Carleton.

1782, December 18. Jamaica.—Acknowledges letters. Mr. Champion has nearly finished his purchase of rum according to the Commissary General's instructions, but there is no vessel at liberty to take it to New York; expects when the Charleston fleet arrives this difficulty will be removed. Seven neutral vessels have been transporting part of the Spanish forces from Port au Prince to Cape Nichola Mole. From the enemy's unsuccessful attempt on Gibraltar and their apprehensions that His Majesty's forces from North America mean to visit the West Indies, there is reason to hope their intentions of attacking Jamaica may be again frustrated, but the events of war are precarious. Whenever they shall divide their force and he finds it certain they have relinquished their ideas of attack, all the troops he can spare shall proceed to Windward or to New York. "Having at all times considered the safety of this Island the first and peculiar object of my care, I have studiously avoided since I had the honor to command, to reduce my force by detachments. I therefore wish your Excellency to know, that when 100 men of Odell's American Rangers were lately sent to the Spanish Main, it was not in pursuit of fresh conquests, but merely to prevent the Spaniards from annihilating His Majesty's settlers and friendly Indians on that shore—who were then exposed to the worst calamities of war. Every circumstance at that period concurred to render such an attempt successful, without any hazard to the security of this island.—The Spanish troops at Black River from the little opposition they met with in the attack of that post, chose to lull in listless security; the Spanish had returned to the Havannah; the French Fleet were on their way to North America; ten sail of British ships of the line were at anchor at Port Royal, and the hurricane season was far advanced. The consequences which ensued have fully justified the measure; our settlers on the shore have been re-established in peace; the enemy's projects discomfited; their troops, artillery and stores have come into our possession, and the detachment sent from hence is actually on its return to Jamaica without the loss of a man."

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to THOMAS TOWNSHEND.

1782, December 18. New York.—"The bearer, Mr. Depeyster, is a gentleman from New Jersey, who informs me that immediately after my arrival he attempted to send me some information, but was discovered and apprehended. He fortunately made his escape, and on his coming here applied to me for some relief and recompence for the services he represented to have rendered during the command of Sir William Howe and Sir Henry Clinton; I am unacquainted with his merits, but as he is well spoken of by Genl. R. and the A. G. who corroborate his own narrative, I gave him £200 sterling as a suffering refugee, and recommended that he should apply to the General Officers at home who are better able to state his pretensions. As he is now become dependent on Government, I recommend him to your notice."

MAURICE MORGANN to Deputy Post Master [J. FOXCROFT].

1782, December 19.—Begins "Sir, In answer to the question why you withheld the Pay Master General's letters, you answer substantially." Reminds him that it is the King's intention the army letters should be delivered free, and the Deputy Pay Master General claims that his office is a military establishment. Does not wish to bring this matter again before the Commander-in-Chief, unless it is made necessary by any unaccustomed demand.

ALEXANDER THOMSON to MAJOR GEN. JAMES PATERSON.

1782, December 19. Pay Office, Halifax.—Encloses extracts of letters to Messrs. Harley and Drummond respecting want of money, which they have doubtless laid before the Lords of the Treasury. Is informed by letters from New York of the scarcity of money there for the supply of the military chest, and fears no supply can come to him from there. As he cannot pass any more of his bills at the discount of 5 per cent., and as they will only pass at 10 per cent. discount, would propose to try that expedient at once to secure as much as possible before the scarcity increases, unless this is disapproved. Sends the enclosed extracts relative to the want of money.

Autograph signed letter. Vol. 49. No. 64. 2 pages.

Enclosing Alexander Thomson to Harley and Drummond 1 August. With extracts of three other letters dated 2 September, 29 October, and 13 November.

Enclosed by Maj. Gen. Paterson to Sir G. Carleton 27 December.

[SIR] G[UY] C[ARLETON] to REAR ADMIRAL ROBERT DIGBY.

1782, December 20. New York.—"Sir, As I have not been able to procure an authentic return of the transports that are going to Europe, I am obliged to trouble your Excellency on account of the report which I have received, such as it is, namely, that the transports now going with the "Warwick" amount to above 7,000 tons, altho' the number of persons of all descriptions going home do not much exceed 500, including the invalids who go in the ships of war. I also learn that some of those transports have been sent here for the express purpose of the evacuation of this place. As this evacuation is to commence as soon as possible, and as I write home by the Warwick to urge their sending out more shipping and with the utmost dispatch, I must rely on your Excellency's judgment not to send home any which might be useful in forwarding this operation, in carrying off either persons, stores, or effects, unless absolutely necessary. I am, &c."

GOV. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, December 21. Jamaica.—Sends this by Lord Charles Montagu, who has received authority to raise a second battalion to the Duke of Cumberland's Provincial Regiment of Foot. Encloses letter giving this authority. Commends Montagu for the manner in which he raised the 1st battalion and the use it has been at Jamaica; a 2nd battalion will be of great service to the garrison. Hopes His Excellency will allow it to be raised under direction of the Inspector General's office at New York, from which Lord Charles found the greatest benefit when he raised the 1st battalion. Solicits for him aid in both raising and transporting.

[qy. LIEUT. COL. OLIVER DELANCEY] to BRIG. GEN. ARNOLD.

1782, December 21. Adjutant General's Office.—"The Commander-in-Chief desired I would mention to you that it would be satisfactory to him if you would procure an order from home for him to continue issuing your pay as Brigadier General here—this does not by any means proceed from a desire of His Excellency to throw any difficulties in your way, for tho' he is convinced of the propriety of your receiving it, yet without a special order for the purpose it would be construed into a precedent and claimed by every person in the same rank, tho' without any other pretensions."

SIR GUY CARLETON to MAJ. GEN. JAMES PATERSON.

1782, December 22. New York.—No. 5. Has received his letters to No. 7 inclusive, with their several enclosures. Proposes sending the corps mentioned in the enclosed return [not identified] to Canada as soon as the river St. Lawrence is open, and desires him to have whatever part of them are now at Penobscot or elsewhere under his command relieved as early as possible in the spring and collected at Halifax with such stores as belong to Canada that all may be ready to proceed. Takes it for granted that Brig. Gen. Campbell had no authority from the King to give rank and therefore that of Mr. Shaw becomes a nullity; refers Shaw's memorial to his own decision, observing that the Deputy Provost Martial here receives only 2/4 per day. The mates of the hospital should be paid 7/6 a day, stopping the usual deductions. Has directed an inquiry to be made respecting Calbeck's memorial. To pay the 200 days' batt and forage money to the officers who came out with the recruits from Europe. Has ordered 165 days' forage money to be paid to the officers here and desires it to be paid in his (Paterson's) district to those who are present with their corps. Governor Parr having represented the scarcity of flour, he has given directions that 1,000 barrels shall be issued from the King's magazines at Halifax to be sold for the relief of the inhabitants as the Governor shall think reasonable, an equal quantity having been bought and delivered into the magazines at New York by the merchants of Halifax.

BRIG. GEN. BENEDICT ARNOLD to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, December 23. London.—"Sir, The inclosed is copy of a letter which I had the honor to address to your Excellency by the Nov. packet, since which I have received the inclosed letters and papers, which in justice to the officers concerned I take the liberty to send to your Excellency, not doubting but that proper attention will be paid to their memorial, as their request appears to be very reasonable. I cannot suppose (after the sacrifices which I have made) that my regiment should be the only one precluded from recruiting, and the expences which the officers have incurred in raising their men not only lost but their future hopes blasted, unless their situation and circumstances had been greatly misrepresented by Colonel Innes, and in consequence the officers ruined.

If any officer in the Corps (who has compleated his number of men) is so void of honor as to endeavour to ruin his brother officers of the corps by seeking a permanent rank in some other, I have that confidence in your Excellency's justice as to believe you will not permit it. I have the honor to be &c."

[Sir Guy Carleton] to Gov. John Parr.

1782, December 23. New York.—Has received his of 13th November recommending a memorial from Mr. Abbot respecting the scarcity of flour in Nova Scotia. Has consulted the Admiral and Commissary General and agreed to the proposal of the latter to issue a quantity from Halifax, while an equal quantity should be delivered at the expense of the merchants into the stores at New York. Leaves it to His Excellency to have it sold off in such small portions and at such moderate profit as may fully answer the intention of relief to the people.

Gov. Patrick Tonyn to Sir Guy Carleton.

1782, December 23. St. Augustine.—The Refugees who arrived by the first convoy are forming settlements in the country; has provided them with agricultural tools. A thousand Loyalists are supposed to have arrived under convoy of the "Bellisarius" and also 1500 negroes; General Leslie's information thereon will no doubt be particular. They are disembarked with the loss of some small craft owing to their rashness in venturing over the bar without sufficient guides. Suggests formation of a military establishment on St. Mary's. Will be short of grain next summer unless provisions can be sent from Carolina and Georgia and an allowance is granted to these distressed Refugees. Submits a proclamation to pave the way for this necessary supply. Also submits a mode of rendering the militia useful by raising a regiment either allowed rations or pay while doing duty. Apprehends the state of inactivity to the southward will not be lasting. "The Superintendent Lieutenant Colonel Brown, and Colonel McArthur will no doubt inform your Excellency of the particulars of the Indians, who have lately come into this province, Creeks, Chactaws, and Cherokees, and sundry nations from the North, Mowhawkes, Senacas, Delawares, Shaneses, Manjoes, Tuscararas, Yatanous, and other tribes from Fort Detroit. The expence in presents must be considerable, and we feel severely the weight of their provisions; should they in such trains repeat their visits, we shall be altogether without the means of supplying them.

I am informed that the chiefs of numerous nations are on their way with a talk confederating the whole body of Indians on the continent: before such embassy it will give me the highest satisfaction to receive your directions; in what manner they are to be treated, and in case of their demanding assistance upon being attacked, what assurance I can give them of it, and how the Indians are to be supplied with provisions? Your Excellency is sensible this province is not equal to so large a demand of supplies, and that there is no other channel of communication but this province between the southern Indians and the King's troops. And how far it may be justifiable, or otherwise, in case of refusal of provisions from Carolina and Georgia, to make foraging incursions for that purpose. I have the honour," &c.

SAMUEL HAKE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, December 26. No. 13. Duke Street, New York.—Not long since he addressed a memorial praying continuance of Sir Henry Clinton's benevolence. Being referred to General Robertson has interviewed and written (encloses copy). Being now referred back to His Excellency, asks him to notice the address presented on his (Carleton's) arrival, copies of which were transmitted to Lord North under whose patronage he acted. Prays a perusal of the Governor's report and to know how far he is to expect patronage to the prayer of his memorial.

MAJOR THOMAS MURRAY to [MAJOR FREDERICK MACKENZIE].

1782, December 26. New York.—Your letter to Mr. Livingston shall be sent. All buildings (rebel property) have been applied for the purpose of barracks and guard rooms; when no such places offered the Crown has always built or hired from the inhabitants. General officers' quarters and several regimental stores have been paid for out of the fund under the direction of the vestry: an account of such expenditure shall be sent. The Barrack Master General could, he (Murray) believes, furnish an account of what sums were paid by the Crown.

Autograph signed letter. Vol. 34, No. 202. 2 pages.

MAJOR THOMAS MURRAY to MAJOR FREDERICK MACKENZIE.

1782, December 26. New York.—Recommending a gentlewoman whose merits as the widow of a servant of the Crown during the war are found to be such as deserve attention. LIEUT. GOV. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1782, December 28. Jamaica.—Encloses duplicate of letter sent by Lord Charles Montagu in reply to his despatches of 20 October and 10 November. Sends also extracts of Spanish letters found on board a merchant ship that was carried into Jamaica 24 December, having sailed from Cadiz 16 November. These papers show that the siege of Gibraltar is raised, and that a large armament of the enemy's combined forces is to proceed soon for the West Indies for an attack on this island (Jamaica). The exertions of the French and Spaniards at Hispaniola in collecting troops and transports at Cape Nicola Mole confirm this information, so thought it his duty to send this express that measures might be taken for their support. The reinforcements ordered here on the evacuation of Charlestown have to his astonishment not yet appeared; as it is supposed they are gone to windward, has represented to General Mathew the necessity of their being sent hither immediately.

JOHN NEWTON, CASPER WOLLENHAUPT and OTHO WM. SCHWART to SIR A. S. HAMMOND, Lieut. Gov. of Nova Scotia.

N.D. [1782.]—Memorial. Narrating that on the 1st of July last [no year stated, but this happened in 1782] a party of 90 men under the command of Lieutenant Batterman landed from five privateers at a place called Red Head, two miles distant, and entered the town by surprise at 4 o'clock in the morning, the privateers sailing up in front of the town. The principal part of the inhabitants were then at Halifax; those remaining were taken prisoners, Colonel Creighton having only time to get 6 men with himself into the Block House, which he defended between two and three hours until the privateers came abreast and fired, when he was obliged to surrender. The captain of one of the privateers, whose name was Babcock, and who had command of the party on shore, sent Wollenhaupt with a flag to the militia, who were then assembling, to say that if no opposition was made they would only take the merchandize in the town and would not injure buildings in town, which was acquiesced in. Having plundered everything to the amount of about 10,000*l.*, they got on board their vessels and then demanded a ransom of 7,000*l.* for the town, but agreed to take 1,000*l.*, for which memorialists were obliged to give a promissory note payable to Noah Stoddard, captain of the largest privateer. The block house and Colonel Creighton's dwelling house were burnt, the guns spiked, and all the small arms carried away. Pray for a captain, two subalterns, and fifty British troops to be stationed with a hundred stand of small arms and ammunition for use of the militia.

THOMAS MURRAY, aid-de-camp. "Answer to MR. SMITH'S application."

1783, January 2. New York.—"General Robinson desires me to say: The Commander-in-Chief, that he might be able to ascertain the extent, and judge of the propriety of Goverment's bounty, having directed that the whole should be given in money, if Mr. Smith judges the sum granted to him too small, he should apply to have it increased. It is presumed to return to the mode of giving a variety of charities from different offices would be destructive of the principles of the principles (sic) established so much to the benefit of the publick."

GERMAN TROOPS.

1783, January 1-4. New York.—Depositions before a Board consisting of three officers, Captain de Eschwege, of the Hesse Hanau Regiment; Lieutenant Reinking, Regiment de Riedesel, and Lieutenant de Eptingen, of the Linsing Battalion Hessians, appointed to examine into the cause of the German soldiers entering into the rebel service on board the frigate "South Carolina," also to enquire of the treatment received from the enemy. All to the effect that the German prisoners of the Convention of Saratoga, when taken to Lancaster or Reading, being separated from their officers were, on the 30th July, 1782, visited by an American clergyman, who read to them the following proposition: "The King of Great Britain refused to pay for their maintenance, their Tyrant princes also had abandoned and sold them, the Congress did therefore leave it to their choice, either to enlist in the American Service, or pay 30*l.* currency of Pennsylvania for their past maintenance in hard money, which sum, if they would not afford to pay, the farmers would advance for them, on binding themselves to serve them for three years, in both of which cases they must take the Oath of Allegiance to the United States. The clergyman did advise them rather to enter into military service, than submit themselves to the disposal of the farmers, to which he added, that everyone, who should enlist as a soldier, was to receive eight dollars bounty, and one hundred acres of good land in America after the war.'' No answer was given to this, and on the 8th August General Lincoln and Brigadier General Haysen (sic) came to Reading and repeated the proposition, with this addition, '' That provisions could no longer be allowed to them as their army was in want thereof, they must therefore accept one or the other of the above mentioned propositions.'' That to this they begged leave to send sergeants to New York to enquire into the truth of their situation and ask orders. That many of the prisoners being removed from the barracks at Reading to the jail, they were either shut in the yard or crowded in rooms where they could neither sit nor lie. They had generally to pay the gaolkeeper for both water and fuel. Their allowance only consisted of 10 ozs. of bread and 10 of meat generally rotten and unfit to eat. As to the serving on the '' South Carolina,'' they had been urged to do this by the American Commodore for six months, after which time they were assured they would have their liberty and allowed to go where they pleased. That many of the King's friends advised them to do this in the hope that the frigate would soon be taken by the King's ships. At the end is translation of the letter said to be written by the prisoners at Lancaster to Sergeant Vaupel at Reading the 22nd September begging him to write a letter to New York describing their situation, and that without money or clothing they cannot hold out much longer, but must enlist with the enemy or indent themselves to the farmers.

A. MCARTHUR, Lt. Col. 3rd Batt. 60th Regt. comdg. in E. Florida, to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, January 9. St. Augustine.—"I have the honor to inform your Excellency that the fleet under convoy of the Bellisarius, with refugees and provisions, arrived off this bar on the 31st ulto, but in coming over it the Rattlesnake galley and two provision vessels, with six others (private property) were lost; the 18-pounder and rigging of the galley were saved; four lives from the private vessels were lost; the cash is arrived safe.

By the Commissary's return of provisions come in this fleet, which I have the honor to inclose, your Excellency will perceive it is so far short of what General Leslie intended that no more than half the allowance can be issued to the refugees untill a further supply arrives ; and even in the event of our being able to afford them what was originally intended, the crop here comes in so late, that those helpless people are likely to feel great distress in the summer months. I inclose a return of refugees and negroes that arrived before this last importation ; no return of them being sent here, it will take some time to ascertain their numbers, as many of them are looking out for habitations ; but by the best acct. I have been able to procure, there are more than fifteen hundred souls arrived with this fleet.

I likewise inclose the Commissary's return of provisions that will remain in store after the first importation of refugees from Carolina shall have received their compleat six months, and the Georgians their compleat three months first ordered ; by this your Excellency will see how very small a quantity there is for those arrived in this last fleet, and to make the Georgians equal with the first arrived Carolinians. I have therefore resolved to issue only for six weeks to those now come, and when the second delivery for three months to the first batch of Carolinians becomes due to give them only for one month, and the same to the Georgians, which I hope will enable us to give a second delivery to those now arrived ; and when those periods are expired we must issue weekly though it will be attended with much inconvenience to the people. I hope no untoward accident will prevent a supply arriving, as in that event a famine must ensue ; and to save the lives of those unfortunate people I may be necessitated to break in upon the supply of the garrison.

Above two years ago, on the arrival of a quantity of gunpowder it was judged improper to risk all in the Fort ; a house was hired for depositing nearly half the quantity, which the proprietor lately sold ; and I was threatened with a prosecution for keeping possession ; but it being a very indifferent magazine, and not chusing to trust a jury, who in all probability would find largely, the Governor is taking the necessary steps for getting us a piece of land which we are to purchase ; the Engineer and I deem it a more eligible situation and he is to immediately to set about building a proper magazine, capable of being made bombproof, but it will be attended with considerable expence.

As the rank of the corps here has not been properly ascertained, Lieut. Col. Hamilton has requested I would transmit to your Excellency the inclosed certificates, and I beg your decision on that head, as likewise on the rank of Lieutenant Colonels Brown and Hamilton, as in the event of the command devolving on either of them it might be attended with inconvenience to His Majesty's service should there be any doubt about it ; in the interim Lieut. Col. Hamilton acquiesces in the seniority of Lieut. Col. Brown. Col. Innes can afford your Excellency the best information on those heads; I likewise inclose a memorial from Lieut. Col. Brown.

With respect to the defence of this place, as the Matanza may be considered the key of it, it has since the arrival of the new garrison been an officer's post, with two eighteen pounders; and next month a capt. and thirty men will take post there, with one large and one small galley; three galleys will be stationed in this harbour and the same number at St. John's. An eighteen pounder was lately sent to the block house at the bar of that river, and the Engineer has given the plan and estimate of a work to be made at a place called the Sisters, which commands the inland navigation from Georgia; this the Province is to do without any expence to Government, and is to be an officer's post. The assembly meets in a few days, and the Governor assures me they will furnish us negroes (we feeding them) to make an abbatis across the Neck; this will be an arduous task, the space being at least twelve hundred yards, the timber to be brought near a mile by land carriage, and then over St. Sebastian's Creek. A space sufficient for three rows of trous des loups will be left between the abbatis and the ditch, and when a stockade is made in the ditch, the pickets for which are preparing, the outer line will be in no great danger of being carried by assault. It is in pretty good order, but the soil is so sandy it requires a number of men constantly employed to keep the works in good repair. By next opportunity the Engineer will have a plan of the works ready to be transmitted to your Excellency. The Musquito inlet being about eighty miles off, I did not think it advisable to send more than an officer, a sergeant and 10 men there, as it would be impossible for them to join us should we be attacked; but as there are near a hundred men in that neighbourhood capable of bearing arms, with a good block house to occupy they will be able to prevent privateers plundering the settlements as they did a few years ago.

I have pressed the Governor to assemble the Militia, were it only on a Sunday, by companies, to accustom them to a rendezvous, for I apprehend in the event of our being attacked, that for want of this necessary precaution it would be difficult to collect them, A hint from your Excellency on this head would produce a good effect.

Capt. Graves not thinking it advisable to take the victuallers with him at this season of the year, they remain here till spring.

Such of the small craft as may not be judged necessary for the defence of this harbour or St. John's shall be immediately paid off. As it has been understood here that it was in contemplation to occupy St. Mary's, Lieut. Mowbray, of the Navy, who has resided here for several years, has requested I would transmit to your Excellency his remarks on that harbour; which, with his letter to me, I take the liberty to inclose, but if your Excellency chuses to have a more accurate description of it I shall send Lieut. Willson, the Engineer, there, who is well qualified to execute it.

The new garrison are much improved in their discipline since their arrival, and considering the service they were upon are by no means so licentious as I expected; they live in good harmony with each other and with the inhabitants.

I transmit herewith a return of the military stores.

The barracks being much in want of repair, the Engineer has already begun upon them.

A great deputation from the Northern Indian nations arrived here a few days ago from Detroit. They profess themselves firmly attached to His Majesties interest, and to have been sent to confirm the southern tribes in the same sentiments, as well as to learn the state of affairs here. We have had two talks with them, paid them all military honors, shewed them the fort, magazines, and some explosions with shott and shells, with which they seemed highly pleased.

I am infinitely obliged to your Excellency for honoring me with this command, and shall use my best endeavour to prevent your having reason to regret it." I have the honor to be, &c.

LIEUT. COL. THOMAS BROWN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

Memorial. Recounting his services in raising in 1776 a regiment called the East Florida Rangers. Was engaged in nine different actions and received the thanks of His Majesty and the Commanders-in-Chief. In 1778 more troops being wanted for the defence of the frontiers of Florida, he engaged, at his own expense, three hundred and fifty men who were formed by General Prevost into a regiment called the South Carolina Royalists, the command of which was given to Colonel Innes. That in the year 1779 General Prevost was ordered to form them into a regiment of Infantry under the title of the King's Rangers and to confirm memorialist and others in their rank of 1st June 1776, which was ordered to be recorded, as Captain Prevost, Deputy Inspector of Provincial Forces, can bear testimony. That in consequcnce of the constant and distant service in which he and his regiment have always been engaged, neither himself nor his officers have yet received commissions except those formerly delivered by Major General Tonyn. Reminds that he has raised twelve hundred men, nearly five hundred of whom have actually been killed in course of service. Begs that such orders may be given respecting the rank of the King's Rangers as they in justice have a right to expect.

LIEUT. COL. THOMAS BROWN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, January 12. St. Augustine.—Quotes extract of a letter from Major de Peyster dated Fort Detroit 18th July last informing of a victory gained by the Indians over six hundred of the enemy, "who had penetrated as far as Sandusky, with a view of destroying the Wiandotts, man, woman and child, as they had done with ninety six of the Christian Indians at Muskingum a few weeks before. The affair at Sandusky happened on the 4th of June, when the enemy left two hundred and fifty in the field, and it is believed that few of the remainder escaped to Wheeling. Their Major, McLellan, and most of their officers were killed in the action. Colonel Crawford, who commanded, was taken in the pursuit and put to death by the Delawares, notwithstanding every means had been tried by an Indian officer present to save his life. This the Delawares declared they did in retaliation for the affair at Muskingum." The Major is sorry the imprudence of the enemy has been the means of reviving the old savage custom of putting their prisoners to death, which with much pains and expense the Indians had been weaned from in this neighbourhood. Canada is quiet, well fortified against attempts, and the Western Indians are attached to Britain. A deputation from the Northward Indians with 1,200 Cherokees arrived at St. Augustine lately to establish a league and confederacy among the different tribes. Gives substance of the talks delivered to him by the Indian representatives, reminding that the Indians had fulfilled their engagements and hoping that the Great King would not abandon them. In his reply, he had renewed assurances of attachment, urged them to desist from all offensive operations and attend to hunting and trading.

"They were perfectly satisfied with their reception and will set off for their land in two days.

"As the towns of the Cherokees are too much exposed to the incursions of the rebels from the frontiers of Pensylvania, Virginia, and the Carolinas, in order the better to contribute to their security, I have prevailed on the head men of the Cherokees to move their towns this winter to that part of the country between heads of Coosa, Chatahanchie and Tannassie river, where it empties itself into the Ohio, that in case the rebels presume to disturb them, they may more readily and conveniently effect a union of force with the Creeks, as well as be in a capacity of intercepting the rebel and Spanish boats navigating the Mississippi and Ohio.

"Since my arrival in this province above three thousand Creeks have been down, and though I have positively ordered them to follow their hunting, they still persist in their visit and plead their poverty and friendship.

"On a service at present deemed so odious and expensive by Government, however necessary, as the rebels and Spaniards spare no pains to excite the Indians to abandon us and take up the hatchet against us, I have, to free myself from the imputation of in any manner improperly contributing to the public expence, informed the Commg. Officer of the King's troops and the Governor (who is conversant with Indian affairs) of every circumstance relative to their disposition, situation, and wants, and have always requested instructions from them in what manner I ought to conduct myself for the good of the King's service.

"With respect to the Northward and Cherokee visitants they told me to subsist them, supply their wants, and send them away satisfied. In obedience to them and with their approbation I purchased blankets and shirts (none being in the store or sent in the last cargo from New York for the eastern or western department); lest I might in any manner through a zeal for the service subject myself to censure, I shall undertake no step without their sanction.

"The Creek nation contains six thousand and the Cherokee three thousand gunmen; the western department contains about five thousand. The annual supply of presents without respect to numbers, circumstances, situation, or wants is sent equally to both. The Creeks and Cherokees from their vicinity to the rebels and us are more exposed to temptation from the former, and are equally prevented from hunting to procure supplies, and from their contiguity to us are more frequent in their visits in the proportion of ten to one.

"The westerns from their distance are scarce comparatively an object of consideration. I have represented this matter to the Commg. Officer and Governor, who purpose to write to your Excellency on the subject.

"As the securing and preserving the friendship of the Indians will, I imagine, appear to your Excellency an object of moment, no exertions on my part shall be wanting to strengthen their friendly disposition towards us.

"At the same time, I beg leave to request your Excellency will be so obliging as to honor me with your orders relative to Indian affairs, which I shall endeavor to execute to the extent of my judgement and abilities: for should the rebels be disposed to make encroachments on the Indian lands, I shall be under some difficulties what line of conduct I am to pursue. I have the honor to be, Sir," &c.

"I have this moment received information from a Mr. Ross, a mercht., that a quantity of Indian goods, addressed to Mr. Stuart's (my predecessor in office) correspondent in Jamaica, were sent to the Havannah and from thence sent to New Orleans to the manifest prejudice of the King's service. I shall endeavour to procure some authentic proofs of this iniquitous transaction and transmit them to your Excellency."

JOHN DOUGLASS, Dep. Sec. of Indian Affairs, to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, January 20. St. Augustine.—" I have the honor to inform you that Lieut. Governor Graham, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Western Division of the Southern District, having obtained leave of absence from General Leslie to go to England for six months on account of his health, and having thought proper with the approbation of the General to appoint me to act as his deputy during such absence, with instructions to pay the greatest attention to the Indians of his Department, in order the more effectually to secure them in his Majesty's interest, and a large party of them, consisting of upwards of 600 Chactaws and Chekesaws, having unexpectedly arrived in this Province, since his departure, to renew their friendship with the British nation, it became necessary (at this critical juncture just after the evacuation of Chas. Town and Savannah), to receive them in the most friendly manner, and during their stay, which was made as short as possible without giving offence, to supply them with the greatest plenty of provisions (as well as goods), the procuring of which having been attended with a large expence, it is become absolutely necessary to make application to your Excellency for an order on the Paymaster for the amount of the ration account herewith transmitted you, to enable me to pay for the provisions and rum purchased.

His Excellency Governor Tonyn and Lieut. Col. McArthur, Commandant of His Majesty's Troops here, have certified the account, and that the same to their knowledge was absolutely necessary and unavoidably incurred. I trust therefore that your Excellency will have no difficulty in ordering payment of the same to Peter Paumier, Esq., Dep. Commissy. General, who is empower'd to receive and transmit it. DR. J. MERVIN NOOTH to MAJOR FREDERICK MACKENZIE.

1783, February 2. New York.—"As it is more than probable that Messrs. Kay and Cullen, both regimental surgeons, are still continued in hospital pay at Halifax, an order for their dismission from the Commander-in-Chief may perhaps be thought necessary by General Paterson. You will be pleased therefore to mention the circumstance to Sir Guy Carleton that should he think it proper, an order may be sent for that purpose. Shall I trouble you to send the enclosed letters with the General's dispatches to Halifax."

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to GOV. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL.

1783, February 3. New York.—No. 5. By the "Jamaica," Captain Dixon, received his of 28th December enclosing extracts from Spanish letters taken in the vessel from Cadiz. Cannot send assistance to Jamaica at present, but as he has reason to believe all the forces in the West Indies will soon be employed for its protection, has no doubt he will be enabled to make an advantageous defence. The reinforcements from Charlestown could not sail till 18th December; hopes they have long since arrived at Jamaica. Forwards certificate of the Deputy Adjutant General stating that the troops under Brigadier General Stewart did not receive the usual bounty of forage money previous to their leaving America.

Draft. Vol. 32, No. 204. 2 pages.

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to GOV. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL.

1783, February 3. New York.—No. 6. Was glad to find by his of 18th December, 1782, that Mr. Champion had arrived in Jamaica and had nearly executed his commission. Not to supply the rum ordered by Leslie, as there will be sufficient in this place without it. Sends some soldiers, taken on board the "South Carolina," a rebel frigate, to be incorporated into such corps serving in Jamaica as may be found expedient.

Draft. Vol. 32, No. 201. 2 pages.

SIR GUY CARLETON to MAJ. GEN. JAMES PATERSON.

1783, February 3. New York.—No. 6. Acknowledges letter of 27th December with enclosures. Is surprised at his giving orders for issuing of forage at Halifax contrary to directions contained in the Adjutant's letter to Brigadier General Campbell of 5th August, and one to himself of 25th August; encloses extract and copy of these. Requests him to issue no forage money to troops under his command without special orders from Head Quarters. The exchange here is 5 per cent. below par, and the risk of sending at this season too great, desires him therefore to raise at Halifax what money is necessary for present service. Cannot allow the appointment of Purveyor of Hospital at Halifax. As Mr. Marshall is not satisfied he is to be allowed to return to Europe. Encloses instructions sent by Nooth to Paine; desires him to render all possible assistance. If Messrs. Kay and Cullen, regimental surgeons, are also paid as hospital mates, they are to be reduced to their regimental pay and duty. Complains of not having received any public accounts nor warrants; encloses extracts of letters and General Orders on this subject. Sends copy of proclamation signed by Pagan, 24th October, 1782, and said to be issued by order of the General; disapproves of this paper, and requests that Campbell in future may issue such in his own name. Forwards extract of letter sent on 22nd December.

NICHOLAS JONES to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, February 3. Bloomingdale.—Memorial. Representing his claim to certain rents and property, the leases of which are declared by the Mayor to be expired and forfeited, but which leases the corporation had promised to renew, and over which various complications had arisen. The memorial was referred by the Commander-in-Chief to General Robertson, the Governor of the Colony, who endorses it thus: "With this memorial I enclose the remarks made in consequence of a strict enquiry. The facts as stated in the remarks appear to be justly stated, and the principles to be equitable. And I am of opinion that Mr. Jones, without any right, has got possession of a considerable sum of money belonging to the poor-house—which he ought to be obliged to refund. James Robertson."

Enclosure :—

1783, February 5. London.—Memorial representing that he was commissioned by the Earl of Dunmore to raise a battalion of Chasseurs on the frontiers of the middle Colonies. That, furnished with General Gage's orders to the commanding officers at Detroit and the Illinois for their co-operation, he was unhappily made a prisoner for five years. That having been sent into Virginia just before the capitulation at York Town, again fell into the hands of the enemy. As he does not come under the description of an officer entitled to any future provision, prays he may be included with those provincial officers who may be recommended for half-pay.

LT. COL. WM. CROSBIE, Barrack Master Gen., to MAJ. MACKENZIE.

1783, February 5. New York.—"The two accounts of expenses incurred in my department from the 27th day of May, 1782, to the 31st day of December following, which had been examined and certified by the Commissary and Honourable Board of Accounts, and which you returned to me on the first instant, with His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief's directions that they should be formed into three separate accounts, viz., Contingencies, House Rent, and Pay to Persons employed in the Barrack Department, are altering agreeable to His Excellency's wishes, but upon preparing the account of House Rent, I find that for Mr. Livingston's additional allowance of 50*l.* per annum from the 5th May, 1782 (Mr. Livingston is paid up to that date), your letter of the 26th January, 1783, ordering that additional allowance to be made, is not a voucher that can be brought forward for or a charge inserted in accounts ending the 31st of December, 1782; may I therefore request that an order may be sent me similar to the one of the 26th January, dated so as to correspond with my accounts ending the 31st December, 1782.

"I must also beg you to be so good as to inform me whether you have laid before His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the copy of my letter to the Commissary of Accounts, in answer to his requiring from me a return of the receipts and issues of barrack stores from the 27th of May, 1782, to the 9th of July following, as by that letter, I make it appear to the Commissary of Accounts, that these returns can never be furnished by me as the barrack stores were in possession of the Commissary General during that period.

"The stores being out of my possession, was the reason why no charge for storekeeper for that period appeared in my accounts. John Clisby, who had formerly been my storekeeper, was by me paid up to the 27th of May, 1782, and then discharged, when I gave up my trusts and closed my books. Clisby was from that period employed by the Commissary General as storekeeper in his department, and was directed by the Commissary General to look to him for his pay, &c.

"As you informed me on the first instant, that it was His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief's desire that John Clisby's pay from the 27th of May, 1782, to the 9th of July following, should be included in my accounts, permit me to remark, that it is necessary for me to have a written order from you, as my voucher for including John Clisby's pay during that period in my accounts, I having made it appear to the Commissary of Accounts, that neither the stores nor storekeeper were in my department during that period.

Desirous to shew the readiest attention to His Excellency's wishes, and teazed with the repeated applications of the needy, who have been informed my accounts had passed the Board, I shall anxiously expect your answer."

BROOK WATSON to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, February 13. New York.—According to commands submits his thoughts on the mode of paying the sundry departments and other contingent expenses of the army, so that the officers employed in providing and issuing public stores may have no concern in money transactions. The idea of the Deputy Paymaster General doing this having been given up, Thomas Aston Coffin, Assistant Commissary Storekeeper and Acting Secretary to the Commissary General, would be equal to the business if properly assisted. Recommends some general principles which might be embodied in a letter of instructions. This bears Sir Guy's notes and queries in the margin.

GOV. WILLIAM BROWNE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, February 17. Bermuda.—Receipt of letters of 7th November and 30th December. Thanks him for the attention paid to their security and means adopted to find out what is required. Lieutenant Slack has passed through the island, viewed the forts and works, conversed with the inhabitants, seen the militia mustered, &c., &c. A return of the inhabitants is to be shown him and he is to have a list of the privateers and prizes. Does not know what has been communicated as to the remissness of this country to provide quarters for the King's troops, so thinks it his duty to enclose an account from the Secretary of the money expended for the accommodation of the battalion; "and when you consider that the whole has been done by this little territory at a time when, from the interruption of their trade, and the want of their accustomed supplies, they were literally starving for lack of bread, and suffering the devastations of a pestilence from unwholesome diet; and when I add that they were treated by the military at their first arrival with a severity which would have ill become men less civilized, you will rather wonder with me that they have done so much, than blame them for having done so little.''

DAVID MATHEWS, Mayor, to MAJOR THOMAS MURRAY.

1783, February 17.—New York. Maintaining that Mr. Jones had not fairly stated the title under which he claims, also that the claim has been fairly treated on previous memorials. States the proceedings according to the best of his memory. That in order to find shelter for refugees he had been desired by Sir William Howe and by Sir Henry Clinton to give permission to build on vacant lots belonging to persons without the lines or to the corporation. That about eighteen months ago a Mr. Ryckman asked permission to repair and occupy a house which was being suffered to go to ruin, and which was found to be part of the corporation estate. That Mr. Jones afterwards stepped in and demanded rent, after much delay producing a lease, expired for a considerable time, granted from the corporation. Mr. Jones said there was a promise of the corporation to renew it. That he told Mr. Jones he should have, as an honest man, called on the vestry and hired it of them. Maintains also that Mr. Jones had been paying a ground rent of only 4*l.* a year reserved by this lease instead of near 200*l.*, which he should have paid, also that the place should at least have been prevented from going to ruin. Finding that there were other buildings on the ground which Mr. Jones had rented out for a very considerable sum the tenants were forbidden to pay him any more rent, which was to be called for by the City Treasurer. Is glad of the opportunity of reporting his own conduct at large; his whole study during this rebellion has been to serve Government and bring knaves to justice. Begs for himself an asylum in another country.

permission to ship it to Halifax may perhaps be of service to that place and save the property from perishing. Mellasses, sugar and naval stores have been till lately very scarce and high here, and never allowed to be exported but in small quantities to the garrisons in Virginia, Carolina, Penobscot and Newfoundland; these articles are now fallen greatly in their prices, which is no reason for allowing them to be exported, but as the quantity's here at present are very considerable, the supplying of Halifax is an object, if the demand there makes the price so high as to induce the merchants to export those articles from hence. LIEUT. COL. THOMAS BROWN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, February 23. St. Augustine.—Wrote by the "Belisarius" a state of Indian affairs and desires his Excellency's orders on these matters. The Cherokees and deputies from the Northern Tribes are returned well satisfied. As the visit has been attended with much expense, hopes it will be productive of much good. Transmits accounts and vouchers of expenses incurred and has directed his agent to apply for a warrant for payment. By intelligence received, the Spaniards have abandoned Mobile, and the garrison of Pensacola is reduced by sickness and desertion to three hundred men, and constantly harassed by Creeks. Pensacola and New Orleans might easily be reduced by six frigates and three hundred men from Jamaica with such assistance as he could render with the Indians. "The pride of conquest and to establish a reputation induced that military Quixote Don Galvez to hazard every thing for the conquest of West Florida; which being effected with an amazing force, has since been comparatively abandoned and might be recovered with the assistance of 600 troops. The planters and inhabitants are principally French, to whom the Spanish yoke is most odiously galling from the wanton cruelties exercised by Govr. O'Reilly."

ADMIRAL HUGH PIGOT to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, February 28. "Formidable," Gros Islet Bay, St. Lucia. "Dear Sir,—I take the opportunity of writing to you by the Narcissus. I am sorry I have it not in my power to give you a more pleasing account of my own situation; the great distance between Jamaica and this island makes it a difficult task for me to know how to act, more especially as the islands here are in so weak a state, that whenever I may be obliged to go to leeward, I think they will all be taken by the enemy, if they have any naval force here.

"By dispatches I received from Government two days ago, I am informed a great armament is upon the point of sailing, if not sailed, from Cadiz to the West Indies; that they are sending ten sail of the line to reinforce me, but as part of them come with convoys, they may be a long time e'er they get here, the enemy is supposed to sail with forty ships of the line. I have no information whether they mean to come first to these islands or proceed immediately for Jamaica: My last letters from thence are dated the 10th of January, they had then got the reinforcement of troops sent from this island: the Carolina troops not arrived. I have letters from Lord Hood of the 22nd of January, dated off the Cape. He had intelligence of Vaudreuil's being off Porto Rico, where I have since learned he took shelter, and as Lord Hood must long ago have been obliged to go to Jamaica for water, I have not a doubt but Vaudreuil is gone to the Cape. I have no certain accounts of the Spaniards at the Havanna. Lord Hood seemed to think they would not move from thence. My accounts from England are that two ships of the line with a frigate is convoying out fifteen or sixteen hundred men that are to call at Barbadoes, and proceed from thence to Jamaica; that a thousand men more are to come out in the merchant ships bound to these islands and Jamaica, which men are for Barbadoes. I am also informed that orders are gone to you to send sixteen hundred men to Barbadoes; with these supplies the islands might with a small naval force be able to defend themselves, and leave me more at liberty to go to leeward. I hope the vessels that are appointed to watch the enemy at Cadiz will give me early information of them; if the ten sail intended to reinforce me all arrive before the combined fleet, I shall muster thirty-four of the line, besides the fifteen Lord Hood has belonging to me to leeward. I am in hourly expectation of something from Jamaica, which will be a great relief to my mind, wishing to know the state of that island, which may direct me how far it may be necessary for me to go there; if I go and am not wanted, I expose all these islands, for I cannot get back to give them any assistance. It is strange that with all these armaments we are negociating for peace, or rather I may say the French are trifling with us; you see, my dear Sir, that my case is critical. I must hope for good intelligence by which I may be able to take the properest steps for the King's service; I have been cruizing a month for Vaudreuil, who gave me the slip by going to the northward of the islands. One of my ships, the Leander, had a smart action in the night with one that I believe to have been one of Vaudreuil's, the action much to the credit of Captain Payne and his people, and it is not a clear point the enemy's ship did not sink. For further particulars I refer you to my letter to Admiral Digby; the Jupiter has taken Vaudreuil's great store ship, and brought her into English Harbour; this will distress him, and give us the masts and other stores we were much in want of."

[MAJOR FREDERICK MACKENZIE] to [GOV. JOHN PARR].

1783, March 3.—"Lieut. Colonel Hamilton, of the Carolina Refugees, intending to return to Halifax tomorrow in a small vessel, the Commander-in-Chief has directed me to inform you by him that the Refugees who removed from Charlestown to Nova Scotia are to be furnished with provisions and other supplies in the same manner and in an equal proportion with those who lately emigrated from this place to that province. The Commissary General has received directions to give the necessary instructions to the Deputy Commissary at Halifax, who will, Sir, communicate to you the orders he receives on this subject.

Preparations are making to send the Refugees from hence to Roseway as soon as the season renders it advisable.

The present conveyance being considered as unsafe, the Commander-in-Chief defers writing until a more favourable opportunity, which he expects will be soon."

J. TEMPLE to GENERAL SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, March 3. Boston, N.E.—" Sir. The signature at the foot of this letter will probably bring to your recollection the little acquaintance that subsisted between us, in the better days of two countries now almost exhausted in their mad endeavours to wound and tear each other to pieces! And that, too, at a time when every consideration founded in wisdom and true policy called loudly upon them to have remained as they were, in the mutual bonds of cordial friendship! Human affairs, however, never did, nor ever will, go as true wisdom and sound policy point out; we must therefore take the world as we find it.

Concluding as I now do from accounts lately arrived from England, that the cruel and unnatural war between the two countries, is before this time totally at an end! and that it is become the fervent wish and desire of the King, his Ministers, and people, to endeavour by all laudable means to bring about as far as may be practicable a cordial return or renewal of intercourse, friendship and commerce! an event I as ardently wish for as any man in England possibly can, I avail myself of the present opportunity of writing, to bear testimony to the just claim that Mr. Bowdoin in honor hath upon the Government of England, for large and valuable property at various times taken from his estate (islands in the vicinity of New York) in the course of the war; and for which strong assurances of payment were repeatedly made. Permit me, Sir, to introduce him (brother to Mrs. Temple) to your notice upon the occasion, as a gentleman of strict honor and integrity! who would not make application for a single farthing more than he thought to be his just due. Nor need I suggest that an honorable attention to the just and reasonable application of Mr. Bowdoin may, in no inconsiderable degree, forward the desirable object of an hearty and general reconciliation.

From personal observation on the spot, corroborated by the concurring sentiments of the best informed leading gentlemen, both civil and military, in this country, with whom I made it my business to be conversant when I came to America in Seventy Nine, I found that a very great majority of the people in these States, so far from what had been represented in England, were at all events determined to be independent of the Government of England, and I became fully persuaded that they would substantially effect it, however long or distressing the war might be continued for the purpose of defeating such their object. I therefore, after having been deliberately through the Northern and Middle States, and with Congress, returned to England; and on the first day of my arrival there, assured Lord North in person, and in the most explicit terms, that the Ministry had been almost totally misinformed of both the disposition and resources of this people, for that, circumstanced as affairs then were, the arms of England, I was confident, would never be able to wrest their independence from them; though a continuance of the war might probably drive them further than desirable, into foreign connections. Events shew that my opinion was not unfounded. Happy, happy then would it have been for Great Britain, and happy too for this country, had that Ministry attended more to the just representations I then made (for I went back to England on purpose to undeceive them) rather than to the delusive, and almost fatal statement of affairs, made by Lord Carlisle, Govr. Johnstone, Mr. Eden, Gallaway and others; who, however faithfull they intentionally may have been, never had the means or opportunity of obtaining true knowledge of either men or things in this country. They could learn only from those whose interest and inclination it most certainly was, to misrepresent and to deceive them. Millions of money and much blood might thereby have been saved to the two countries, and peace, friendship and commerce have long since been restored! But it is to no purpose to look back, further than to make past errors subservient, as they some times may be made, to better conduct—to, as far as may be, recovering conduct, in future.

Ever since my last return to America, seeing as I had long seen, that these United States were, and must be, independent of the Government of England, it has been my constant zealous wish and desire that they may be, and that they may continue to be, as completely independent of every other Power, Kingdom, State or Potentate, upon earth! and that, every kind of undue influence, foreign or domestic (artfully introduced and set on foot in the hour of our necessity and distress) militating with, or like a slow poison acting upon, such an entire independence, might be effectually counteracted and completely destroyed! my efforts to that purpose have not, I trust, been altogether fruitless. In the same line of conduct I, however, mean stedfastly to persevere.

With great consideration and respect, I have the honor to be, &c. Endorsed "Recd. — March, 1783. By Mr. Bowdoin."

CAPTAIN JOHN STEEL to ROBERT DIGBY, Rear Admiral of the Red.

1783, March 5. "Keppel," in Princes bay.—A party of the noted Storey's gang landed on Staten Island on the 3rd about 9 at night, surrounded two houses within a mile of the "Keppel," in one of which houses he had a wounded man and an attendant who was illtreated and taken prisoner. A small whale boat was also carried off. The small craft cannot move in safety from under cover of the "Keppel's" guns for want of a proper galley with boats and until the pickaroons are destroyed. All craft moving by water in this quarter is in danger of being captured by them. By information learns that two gun boats and three whale boats under the command of Mr. John Storey are now out.

DAVID THOMAS to SIR GUY CARLETON, K.B.

1783, March 8. Paymaster General's Office, New York.—"I beg leave to inform your Excellency that upon the evacuation of Charles Town, I was under the necessity of sending my assistant Mr. Gale, with the sum of 15,000*l.* sterlg. to St. Augustine, to pay the troops in that garrison; and at the same time charged him to give me the earliest information he could of the best and safest mode of supplying that garrison with money in future. In consequence of which he informs me in his letter of the 29th of January last that if I could send him some of the contractors' bills, as they have no agent there, it would enable him to get a sufficient sum in specie from the merchants for the use of the garrison; and likewise with the money still remaining in the military chest to keep up the rate of exchange.

This being the case, I need not inform your Excellency that this mode will oblige the merchants, save the public the freight of one p. cent, besides the danger of the sea.

Should your Excellency approve of the method, I will, whenever you think proper, desire the contractors' agents to draw the bills, that they may be forwarded by the first safe conveyance to Augustine." Marked :—"Approved of; and to send to the amount of 10,000*l.* sterlg."

JOHN SMALL, Lt. Col. Comdt. 2nd Battn. 84th Regt., to MAJ. GEN. PATERSON.

1783, March 10. Fort Edward, Windsor District, Nova Scotia.—Reports by command such occurrences as are connected with the public service and that part of the troops under Paterson's command stationed at the more advanced and frontier posts of this Province. That the 2nd Battalion of the 84th occupying this post and its environs were mustered and (he flatters himself) would merit approbation. This battalion is scattered and dispersed, part at Placentia, part on Cape Breton Island and part in the Southern Provinces. Requests his interposition to have it united. Repairs needed to the wood and brick work of this fort. Satisfactory assurances from the inhabitants for the defence given by these troops, both at this place and Annapolis. The accounts from the posts of Cumberland and Cornwallis are favourable. Major Studholme, commanding at Fort Howe at the embouchure of the river St. John's, forwards some dispatches from General Haldimand. The severity of the season makes it almost impracticable to "pervade" the frontiers any farther at present.

ARCHIBALD MCARTHUR, Lt. Col. 3rd Batt. 60th, commanding in East Florida, to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, March 11. St. Augustine.—"The provisions in issuing have held out beyond expectation—by withholding from a dozen of people who have large gangs of negroes and who are best able to purchase provisions for them, we are enabled to issue for the fifth month to all the necessitous Refugees who came with the two first fleets, and for ten weeks to those who came in the last fleet, retaining provisions for the garrison to the end of June.

It has hitherto been impossible to ascertain with precision the number of Refugees that came in the last fleet, they drop in daily from distant parts of the Province where they went to look out for habitations, but they are nearly three hundred short of what I mentioned on the 9th January; several vessels when that acct. was taken had not got within the Bar of this place or St. John's, and the masters of vessels who were got in gave at random the numbers on board those without.

The duty of the Inspector of Refugees having become much more laborious since the Carolina people arrived, I was necessitated to increase his pay from five to ten shillings per day, with an assistant here and another at St. John's, each at five shillings.

I mentioned in a former letter to your Excellency that the house where near half of the gun powder was kept had been sold, and it being necessary to remove the powder to the Indian Church till a new magazine was built—yesterday when the powder was removed, Colonel Bull, the new proprietor, gave notice by an attorney that we were not to remove a neat guard room built by us for the magazine guard, a large stage for drying powder in, and the pickets above the magazine. As I did not chuse to be involved in a law suit, I directed our people to desist; but this behaviour appeared to me so unhandsome in a man who is receiving provisions from the Crown for 178 persons, that I have wrote to him, in case he persists, the rations for himself and his people should be withheld. As it is probable this man may add to his other absurditys that of importuning your Excellency on this subject, I considered it my duty to apprise you of it."

ANDREW ELLIOT to MAURICE MORGANN, Secretary.

1783, March 17. Superintendent's Office, New York.—Acknowledges letter of the 13th inst., enclosing memorial of Robert McCulloh. As the granting a license for the exportation of a particular cargo may create murmurs, suggests that the memorialists may be authorized to inform at the sales that the Commander-in-Chief has ordered the superintendent to admit of a general exportation of tar until further orders. All may thus avail themselves of the indulgence or may protest against it. Endorsed :—"Reporting on Robert McCullogh's memorial in behalf of the Loyalists on the river St. John's who had shipped a cargo of tar to this port."

Signed letter. Vol. 20, No. 179. 3 pages.

JAMES GORDON, Major 80th Regt., to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, March 17. Lancaster.—Received letters of 1st, 8th and 10th December, 1782, by Captain Armstrong, and has issued money and clothing to the British, Provincial, and German prisoners of war at Philadelphia and Lancaster. The clothing seized in Chester was opened and compared with the general invoice in the presence of an American officer. A list of deficiencies is sent to his Excellency's Adjutant General. Has advanced money to the prisoners of war belonging to the Royal Artillery at the rate pointed out by Brigadier General Martin. Commends Captain Armstrong in his applications to Congress, &c., for the recovery of the clothing seized in Chester. Sends an account of money disbursed for transporting the stores. Complains of the illiberal treatment which the British Officers have met with at this post. Refers him to Captain Armstrong, who was an eye-witness.

[SIR GUY CARLETON] to CHEVALIER DE LA LUZERNE.

1783, March 19. New York.—Proposed letter. Sir, Admiral Digby communicated to me a letter from your Excellency dated the 7th of March, 1783, addressed jointly to us, but the subject relating only to the Navy, over which I have neither inspection or controul, I must therefore, Sir, refer you solely to the Admiral, from whose natural humanity I must conclude his answer will give your Excellency the fullest satisfaction.

I cannot, however, help observing that no man has died in any prison under my command since May last. Provisions are very good, and in such great abundance that I could have spared the Admiral large quantities, had he wanted them.—I am, with much consideration, &c.

HESSIANS.

1783, March 20. Mount Hope.—"Abstract of a letter from thirty-five Hessian prisoners of war to his Excellency Lieut. General de Lossberg.

In the goal at Philadelphia one Mr. Fash on the 28th of April, 1782, proposed to procure their enlargement, if they would go and work for him ; he promised at the same time to bring them back to Philadelphia whenever they should desire it.

The miseries of a goal, in which they had been confined for eighteen months, upon small allowances, prevailed upon them to consent. They accordingly went with Mr. Fash to Mount Hope. On the 15th of Novbr., 1782, a Captain and three men came to enlist them, which they refused. Mr. Fash procured a continuance of their stay with him.

In the month of February last they attempted to escape to New York, but having got as far as Newark they were taken up and put in goal, where they were kept for eight days without any allowance of provisions, when Mr. Fash again procured their freedom, paying twenty dollars for each of them, which sum he was to deduct from their wages.

Some time after, some of them asking Mr. Fash for money or linnen, he went away saying that he would get some, but Captain Dille with a detachment came to carry them to the goal at Brompton, to make them enlist or pay the 30*l.* for their maintenance. They insisted upon being brought back to the goal at Philadelphia according to Mr. Fashe's promise, but he said they were out of his hands, and refused to pay the balance of their wages.

The Captain told them they were at his disposal, because they were Continental servants, to which they replied that they were no servants, but the King's soldiers. Upon which the Captain drew his sword, put it to their breasts, threatening to kill them, and struck them, till he broke it upon the head of one of them. He then carried them off, and that night put them into a house surrounded with centries, and allowed them neither bread nor water.

The next day, which was the 8th of March, Mr. Fash came again, and offered the 30*l.* for them, for which they were to work. As they could not hold out in their present situation, and had no other choice but to enlist, which they would not, or return to Mr. Fash, they accepted his proposal.

On the 12th of March they were made to swear that they would either repay the money or work for it.

In this situation they remain.

On the 19th of March they heard of a peace being made, and that all prisoners were to have their liberty.

They can get no certainty of it from Mr. Fash, and beg to be informed of their situation by an answer from New York.

As they apprehend being reported as deserters, they express their happiness in having this opportunity to declare their firm intentions, and only desire to rejoin their regiments, and to explain to the General in what manner they were forced into their present condition.

Their names are subscribed to the letter. They number thirty of the Regt. of Knyphausen ; two of the Regt. of Prince Hereditaire ; one of the Regt. of Hessian Artillery ; two of the Regt. of Hesse Hanau Artillery. Total, 35.

Taken from the German, New York, April 27th, 1783. H. R. Motz, Secretary."

MAJOR GEORGE HANGER to MAJOR FREDERICK MACKENZIE.

1783, March 21.—Thinks Lord Cathcart or Captain Miller should pay the money to Captain James. As Lord Cathcart appointed him paymaster, thinks it a very cruel case that Captain James should be kept out of the money so long, he having paid the sum to his troop out of his own subsistence. Requests him to use his influence with the Commander-in-Chief to bring this to a hearing.

ANDREW ELLIOT, Supt. Gen., to MAURICE MORGANN.

1783, March 22. Police Office, New York.—"Having received his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief's directions to make out a form of a return of all the memorials given into the police in consequence of the General Orders of the 18th of February, 1783, in order that his Excellency, before full reports are made by the police, may have a general view of the claims contained in those memorials. In obedience, I have the honor to enclose a sketch of such a form, which I request you will be so good as to lay before the Commander-in-Chief, and to inform me if it meets his Excellency's wishes, or if not, the alterations he may chuse to have made.

As deserted property has never in any shape come under the direction of the police, further than deciding such disputes as might arise amongst the occupiers, the police in order to enable themselves to make the necessary reports upon the memorials ordered to be given unto them, have collected every material they could obtain that could give them insight into the disposal and present situation of such property.

From a desire to give the fullest information, I have taken the liberty to enclose copies of seven papers, which give the fullest view of the disposal and situation of deserted property.

The books containing the reports of the Board of Enquiry appointed by Sir Henry Clinton the 28th of August, 1780, which are referd to by the enclosed sketch, the police obtained from the Commandant's Office; should they be wanted, they are at present lodged at the Superintendent's Office in Water Street."

MAJ. GEN. ROBERT HOWE to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, March 25. Boston—"Sir. The bearer of this letter, Mr. Livingston, seems to think that an address from a military to a military character will have its effect, however adverse those characters, from a sense of duty, may officially in other respects be compelled to act. In compliance, therefore, with the wishes of a gentleman whose family, and merit give him a claim to my attention, I venture to trouble your Excellency with this letter; and I confess without fear of being thought an intruder; because the character I have had of you, confirmed by many circumstances in your conduct, has impressed me with such an opinion of your liberality of sentiments, as leaves me without a doubt, should the liberty I take be improper, that it will meet your excuse, when you consider the motive from which it results. Mr. Livingston will explain to your Excellency the occasion of his visit to New York; and the detail will convey to you such a complicated scene of villany, such an attrocious breach of commercial faith, as deserves and should receive the discouragement of every State, though the transaction should have happened in one at war with that where the perpetrators may attempt to take shelter. Possessed of this opinion, I fully persuade myself, that should the persons I particularly allude to, fly to New York as an asylum, they will have no protection from your Excellency; and that Mr. Livingston will receive aid, rather than obstruction, in obtaining that justice due to him, from you who have upon every occasion demonstrated that humanity and generosity were the guides of your conduct. I am, Sir, with great personal respect,&c."

CADWALLADER COLDEN to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, March 29. New York.—Hearing that his Excellency may at any time give up the chief command, begs to suggest a method whereby his difficulties as a distressed loyalist may be lessened, that is of having a year's pay in advance to enable him to pay some debts and to remove his family to his former place of residence, if he may go there. Reminds him he is the son of an old, faithful servant of the Crown, and though he acknowledges the generous allowance he has had the two years past, he has lived in the greatest economy ; he has spent all that could come out of his own property, and his estate is stripped of everything for fines and taxes.

Endorsed :—"A Warrant for 100*l.* sterlg. issued 8th Apl. 1783. By order of the Cr.-in-Chief. Fredk. Mackenzie, D.A. Genl."

Autograph signed letter. Vol. 25, No. 33. 3 pages.

MAJ. WATT DULANY (Maryland Loyalists) to SIR GUY CARLETON.

1783, March 29. New York.—Thanks for the flattering prospect of being put on the British establishment, adding:—"My duty as a subject; the happiness which America enjoyed under the British Government; and the miseries to which she would be reduced by an independence; were the motives that induced me to join the British Army; . . . . . But, at the same time, that I acted, with the greatest zeal, against my rebellious countrymen, I never forgot that I was an American. If, therefore, Sir, Independance should be granted, and the war still continued, I should deem it extremely improper to remain in a Situation obliging me to act either directly or indirectly against America. If, after this declaration, I can be received by your Excellency, upon the footing offered me by Colonel Thompson, I shall think myself highly honored, it being the first wish of my heart ever to serve in the British Army, whilst I can with consistency. Endorsed:—"Major Dulany, 29th March, 1783. To Sir Guy Carleton. If Independance is granted and the war continued, he cannot serve directly or indirectly against America. The King can have no occasion for the service of such officers, as will not serve against his enemies. By order of the Comr.-in-Chief. Fredk. Mackenzie, D.A. Genl., 11th April, 1783."

HISTORICAL MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION.

PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE,
CHANCERY LANE,
LONDON, W.C.

HIS MAJESTY THE KING has been pleased to ratify and confirm the terms of the Commission issued by Her late Majesty, appointing certain Commissioners to ascertain what unpublished MSS. are extant in the collections of private persons and in institutions, which are calculated to throw light upon subjects connected with the Civil, Ecclesiastical, Literary, or Scientific History of this country; and to appoint certain additional Commissioners for the same purposes. The present Commissioners are:—

Sir R. Henn Collins, Master of the Rolls; the Marquess of Ripon, K.G., the Earl of Liverpool, the Earl of Dartmouth, the Earl of Crawford, K.T., the Earl of Rosebery, K.G., Lord Fitzmaurice, Lord Alverstone, G.C.M.G., Lord Lindley, Lord Stanmore, G.C.M.G., Sir Edward Fry, Mr. John Morley, O.M., M.P., Sir H. C. Maxwell-Lyte, K.C.B., and Mr. C. H. Firth, M.A., LL.D.

The Commissioners think it probable that you may feel an interest in this object, and be willing to assist in the attainment of it; and with that view they desire to lay before you an outline of the course which they usually follow.

If any nobleman or gentleman express his willingness to submit to the Commissioners any unprinted book, or collection of documents in his possession or custody, they will cause an inspection to be made by some competent person, and should the MSS. appear to come within the scope of their enquiry, the owner will be asked to consent to the publication of copies or abstracts of them in the reports of the Commission, which are presented to Parliament every Session.

To avoid any possible apprehension that the examination of papers by the Commissioners may extend to title-deeds or other documents of present legal value, positive instructions are given to every person who inspects MSS. on their behalf that nothing relating to the titles of existing owners is to be divulged, and that if in the course of his work any modern title-deeds or papers of a private character chance to come before him, they are to be instantly put aside, and not to be examined or calendared under any pretence whatever.

The object of the Commission is the discovery of unpublished historical and literary materials, and in all their proceedings the Commissioners will direct their attention to that object exclusively.

In practice it has been found more satisfactory, when the collection of manuscripts is a large one, for the inspector to make a selection therefrom at the place of deposit and to obtain the owner's consent to remove the selected papers to the Public Record Office in London or in Dublin, or to the General Register House in Edinburgh, where they can be more fully dealt with, and where they will be preserved with the same care as if they formed part of the muniments of the realm, during the term of their examination. Among the numerous owners of MSS. who have allowed their papers of historical interest to be temporarily removed from their muniment rooms and lent to the Commissioners to facilitate the preparation of a report may be named :— His Majesty the King, the Duke of Rutland, the Duke of Portland, the Marquess of Salisbury, the Marquess Townshend, the Marquess of Ailesbury, the Marquess of Bath, the Earl of Dartmouth, the Earl of Carlisle, the Earl of Egmont, the Earl of Lindsey, the Earl of Ancaster, the Earl of Lonsdale, Lord Braye, Lord Hothfield, Lord Kenyon, Mr. Stopford Sackville, the Right Hon. F. J. Savile Foljambe, Sir George Wombwell, Mr. le Fleming, of Rydal, Mr. Leyborne Popham, of Littlecote, and Mr. Fortescue, of Dropmore.

The costs of inspections, reports, and calendars, and the conveyance of documents, will be defrayed at the public expense, without any charge to the owners.

The Commissioners will also, if so requested, give their advice as to the best means of repairing and preserving any interesting papers or MSS. which may be in a state of decay.

The Commissioners will feel much obliged if you will communicate to them the names of any gentlemen who may be able and willing to assist in obtaining the objects for which this Commission has been issued.

R. A. ROBERTS, Secretary.
